ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I acknowledge with a deep sense of respect and gratitude the valuable help and guidance given to me by my guide, Professor (Dr.) P. V. Kulkarni, Ph.D.(Bom.), FIMM, MCIT(London), FBIM(London), Visiting Professor, Brihan Maharashtra College of Commerce, Poona and Indian Institute of Cost & Management Studies & Research, Poona, for this thesis. His esteemed advice all through the period of work provided me with inspiration for this academic exercise. To a great extent, he has influenced my thinking and instilled in me abundant confidence in handling the subject.

I am grateful to the senior officers of the State Transport Undertakings and friends from the academic and teaching community with whom I was privileged to have extensive discussions on the subject matter of the thesis in its contextual and academic dimensions respectively. I thank the faculty in the Central Institute of Road Transport, Poona, whose help and encouragement contributed to this work and Shri M. K. Kulkarni, Librarian, CIRT, who ungrudgingly met my demands as researcher.

I must specially thank S/Shri H. Dey and H. K. Joshi who cheerfully volunteered to type the several drafts and the final copies of the thesis.

And, finally I must thank my old mother, my wife and my two teenaged children who demanded least of my time for them and, with understanding, relieved me of many a family burden.
