ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Good intentions are many, but very few act on them. My intention to do a Ph.D did not emerge over night. Indeed, the crystallisation of my ideas into a form, a shape could not have been possible without the constant encouragement of my teacher Dr (Mrs.) Atiya Habeeb Kidwai. Being her student instilled in me the desire to read, to know as much about my own field as also in others. She trained me to question everything and to go beyond random generalisations. She encouraged me never to shy away from an idea, no matter how mundane it may appear. Her incisive criticisms helped me to persevere, to refine all that were rough and uneven. It was only her persistence, patience and enthusiasm which helped me to overcome all barriers in completing this study.

I would like to record my thanks and appreciation to Prof. Terry McGee (University of British Columbia), Prof. Kamal Salih (MIER), Mrs. Mei Ling Young (MIER) for their encouragement at different stages of this work. Prof. Hans Singer (IDS, University of Sussex), whose comments on my initial chapterisation were extremely helpful. Prof. Alan Gilbert's (University College of London) early advise to me to take greater care of facts, assisted me in the task of preparing the data base for this thesis. Prof. John Toye (IDS, University of Sussex), Prof. G.S. Bhalla, Prof. Moonis Raza, Prof. J. Prescott (IOWA, State University, USA) and Mr. K.K. Mazumdar, were instrumental in helping me to recognise the value of this research.

Thanks are due to all my teachers in the Department who have trained me as a student. I am particularly grateful to Prof. Kusum Chopra, Prof. Aijazuddin Ahmad, Prof. A.K. Mathur, Prof. A. Kundu, Dr. R.K. Sharma and Dr. Aslam Mahmood, for the discussions held to sort out my queries.

I am particularly indebted to the Study Course 9 of IDS, at the University of Sussex for generating the desire to conduct a field work in Delhi. The particularly awesome task of interviewing 308 working women in Delhi would never have been possible without the encouragement, moral support and matchless enthusiasm rendered by Krishna Pradhan, Amrita Singh, Raji Gomber, Shashi Yadav, Aruna Ludra, M.R. Kidwai and K.G. Singh. I also had the opportunity to seek fruitful advice on the survey from Dr. Alice Thorner (Paris), Dr. Kate Young and Dr. Naila Kabeer (IDS, Sussex), Dr. Hillary Standing and Dr. Anne Whitehead (University of Sussex).

When things were difficult and desperate, I had the reassurance of my friends Akash, Gopi, Moorthy, Shalini, Lalita, Sanjeev, Major and Anil Bahuguna, who helped me to persevere.
I am grateful to Sushmito, Abdi Salam, Errol D'Souza, Shekhar Singh, Diwakar, Satish Mohan, Niladri, Devendra Nayak, Amitabh Mishra, Ramaiah, Shakeel Akhtas, Sunil Kuksal, Abhay Lal, I.P. Singh, Subash, Alok Singh, Ranjit Mishra, Piyush, Bhupal, Gopa Kumar, Sujata, Anandita and Aslam for the many fruitful discussions and support. They also helped in making available known faces while going through unknown tests and countless pages.

I would like to specially thank the following Libraries and their staff for assisting me in the course of my research, namely, Jawaharlal Nehru University, Ratan Tata Library, Nehru Memorial Museum Library, Indian Statistical Institute Library, Central Statistical Organisation, School of Planning and Architecture (New Delhi), University of Sussex Library, Institute of Development Studies Library, at Brighton, (U.K.) University of Manchester Library, (U.K.) Universiti Sains Malaysia, Registrar General Census of India Library and Central Secretariat Library.

This thesis would never have been completed without the support and encouragement of Prof. G.K. Chadha, Mr.V.Murlidhar, Mr.Manoj Srivastava, Mr.Satyendra Kumar and Mr.P.Pani. The access to the School Computer at the School of Social Sciences, helped me to organise my data. I am also grateful to Prof.B.S. Minhas, Dr.Ray, Mr.D.K.Joshi and Mr.Harish Kumar at the NSSO for the access to data.

Acknowledgements are due to Mrs.Shyamala, Suresh, Murlidharan, S.K. Sharma for their meticulous typing of the manuscripts and data. Thanks are also due to Mr.Gabbar Singh, Mrs.Viswanathan for the typing of the earlier drafts.

Finally my deepest sense of gratitude to my mother and father, uncle and aunts and to my brothers, who patiently endured the trials and tribulation of time with the hope that one day things will change for the better.
