ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This research paper would not have been possible without the guidance and the help of several individuals who in one way or another contributed and extended their valuable assistance in the preparation and completion of this study. It is my pleasure and privilege to place on record my deep sense of gratitude to all who have had anything to do with the genesis, growth and completion of this study.

My first and foremost thanks are for my supervisor, Dr. Niranjana, Associate Professor, DOS in Communication and Journalism, Manasa Gangotri. This thesis could be brought to this present form with his encouragement and guidance.

It is also my duty to express gratitude to the Chairman Prof. N.Usharani, Prof Mahesh Chandra Guru, Prof K.J.Joseph and the staff of the DOS in Communication and Journalism for their invaluable help and support.

The help offered by the numerous people in the film and television industry has been priceless and is highly appreciated. Without the timely assistance and cooperation of associates and friends like Sri Arvind Shashi, Sri Mandya Ramesh, Dr. R.poornima, Smt. Geeta Sundararaman, and various other people in the print media, experts in law and psychology, and many others, without whom it would have been impossible to obtain the data that was vital for the research.

I gratefully acknowledge the wholehearted help and a wealth of suggestions on all quarters, provided by Prof. Eshwar, (Retd. Professor BU and MIC), due to which this thesis could be brought to this present form.

I feel blessed to have a wonderful family, who has been of great support from the beginning in all aspects. It is their joy and enthusiasm that has been motivational for me, even during the tough times in my Ph.D. pursuit. My heartfelt thanks to my parents, my husband, my brother and my in-laws for helping me in their best capacities at every step.

My sincere thanks to everyone who have been of help either directly or indirectly towards the successful completion of this research work.
