Training Needs Analysis Diagram

N. B. From the analysis at the organisational level, if training need is perceived, then the job data is analysed to ascertain if there is any training need at that level; if the finding is positive, then analysis of the current level of performance of the individual or of his optimal level of performance is made to find out the training need at the individual level. After the identification, starts the planning and delivery of training.