I am immensely indebted to Professor K. Warikoo who channeled my fragmented thoughts and framed it in a manner that helped me to see through the subject closely. It is for his extra ordinary co-operation, encouragement, academic as well as moral supervision that this Ph.D work could see the light of the day. My thanks are due to the members of his family for their affection.

At this juncture I would like to place on record my heartfelt gratitude to my Principal Dr. Vijaya Shivapuri, Vasanta College for Women, K.F.I., Rajghat Fort, Varanasi, for her encouragement, affection and love to achieve success in every aspect of life.

I wish to express my deepest sense of gratitude and sincere thanks to Prof. Anjoo Sharan Upadhyaya, Head of Dept. of Political Science, BHU and Priyankar Upadhyaya, co-coordinator, Malaviya Centre for Peace Research, BHU, who gave the coverage and conviction to complete the work in time.

Gratitude is also due to many individuals, institutions and staff members of JNU Library, MCPR (BHU) IDSA and American Centre Library (New Delhi), for their kindness and utmost cooperation in directing me to procure relevant materials. Here I would thank some individuals, Nalin Mahapatra, Project Fellow of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad Institute, Kolkata, who gave me valuable material and suggestions for the work. Deba R. Mohanty, Associate Fellow, IDSA needs all the credit for encouraging me to submit the thesis in time. My colleague at college Sanjeev Kumar, who went through the entire draft and made all necessary correction. My friend Manish Saurav, was always encouraging me to submit the thesis. I thank both of them personally.

My family members, especially my mother have always been by my side whenever I needed them and were a constant source of inspiration for me. Here I would like to thank personally my brother-in-law Colonel B.S. Das, Colonel G.S. Delhi Area, who is an excellent person and a man of many adventures. The final draft was written in 21 Mandir Marg, his official residence in Delhi Cantonment in the spring of 2004. I would also like to thank my sister Reena and my nephews Madhur and Anand for their support and encouragement.

A world of thanks and deep acknowledgegement to my eldest brother-in-law Mr. P.K. Mishra, Executive Director SEBI, sister Sanju and nephews Kunu and Sonu. Also thanks to my other brother-in-law J.P. Rath, sister Bui and niece Nayonika. It would be injustice on my part if I do not mention about my students at Vasanta College for Women, Rajghat Fort, Varanasi, who are a source of inspiration to complete this work.

Lastly I would like to mention about Ani, my wife. She has taken the pains to type the entire Ph. D thesis and making all the tables and charts. She did a lot of internet surfing to collect all necessary data. I would like to thank her for her patience to do this difficult job. A heartfelt thanks for her.

While thanking all those again who have contributed towards the completion of this work, error and inadequacy, if any here in remain to be mine alone.

Place: New Delhi

Date: January 2005

Manoj Kumar Mishra