

Annual Review, Kolkata Traffic Police, 2001

Annual Review, Kolkata Traffic Polic-2010

Ashton, S. J. and Mackay, G. M. (1979), Some characteristics of the population who suffer trauma as pedestrians when hit by cars and some resulting implications. Proceedings of the 4th IRCOBI conference.

Audit Commission Hong Kong, “Provision of Footbridges and Subways” October 2007; Report No. 49 of the Director of Audit.

Bussey, L.E. The Economic Analysis of Industrial Projects, Prentice-Hall,

Census and Statistical Department, Hong Kong, 2003.

Chowdhuri, P.R., Studies in Accounting Thought, Department of Commerce, University of Calcutta. 1995

Finch, D.L. Speed, Speed Limits and Accidents. PR58. Transportation Research Laboratory, Crowthorne, 1994.

G. Tiwari, “Pedestrian infrastructure in the city transport systems: a case study of Delhi”

Hauer, E. (1994). Can One Estimate the Value of Life or is it Better to be Dead Than Stuck in Traffic? Transportation Research Series A, 28, 109-118

Jalihal, Reddy and Kayitha, “Changing Traffic Composition Trends, Speed characteristic and Travel Patterns of Delhi, Mumbai and Bangalore cities of India”, 2005

Kolkata Traffic Police and Transportation Planning and Traffic Engineering Directorate, Transport Department, Government of West Bengal. December, 2005

Koornstra M., D. Lynam, G. Nilsson, P. Noordzij, H-E. Pettersson, F. Wegman

O’Cinneide, D., Ac Auliffe, N. and O’Dwyer, D. Comparison of Road Design Standard and Operational Regulations in EC and EFTA Countries. Deliverable 8, EU Drive II Project V2002, 1993.)

Oxley, J. “Age differences in road crossing behaviour.” Unpublished doctoral

Road Transport Year Book (2009-10 & 2010-11), Transport Research Wing, Ministry of Road Transport & Highways, Government of India, New Delhi

Sandip Chakroborty and Sudip K. Roy, *Traffic Accident Characteristics of

Study on Traffic & Transportation Policies and Strategies in Urban Areas in India, Ministry of Urban Development, Govt. of India, May, 2008

Traffic & Transportation Policies and Strategies in Urban Areas in India, 2008, MoUD,

Transport Research Wing, Ministry of Road Transport & Highways, Government of India, New Delhi, July 2012.

UNM, Health Science Center Wellness Program, http://hsc.unm.edu/wellness/physical/stairs.html).

V. Ostrom; E. Ostrom, Public Choice: A Different Approach to the Study of Public

