LIST OF TABLES

Table-A : Population – figures at a glance Census of India 2001 (Kolkata) 48
Table-1 : Item-wise distribution of discrimination indices of the perceived Physical Environment Questionnaire 75
Table-2 : Item-wise distribution of discrimination indices of the Perceived Social Environment Questionnaire 76
Table-3 : Item-wise distribution of discrimination indices of the Perceived Changing Values of Younger Generation Questionnaire 77
Table-4 : General characteristic features of elderly people residing in different old-age homes of Kolkata city 79
Table-5 : General characteristic features of elderly people residing in different families of Kolkata city 82
Table-6 : Comparison between the elderly people residing in old-age homes and family settings of Kolkata city in terms of perceived physical environment 86
Table-7 : Comparison between the male and female elderly residing in old-age home and family settings of Kolkata city in terms of perceived physical environment 88
Table-8 : Comparison between the elderly people residing in old-age homes and family settings of Kolkata city in terms of perceived social environment 91
Table-9: Comparison between the male and female elderly residing in old-age homes and family settings of Kolkata city in terms of perceived social environment

Table-10: Comparison between the elderly people residing in old-age homes and family settings of Kolkata city in terms of perceived changing values of younger generation

Table-11: Comparison between the elderly male and female residing in old-age homes and family settings of Kolkata city in terms of perceived changing values of younger generation

Table-12: Comparison between the elderly people whose duration of stay is below and above five years in old-age homes of Kolkata city in terms of perceived physical environment

Table-13: Comparison between the elderly people whose duration of stay is below and above five years in family settings of Kolkata city in terms of perceived physical environment

Table-14: Comparison between the elderly people whose duration of stay is below and above five years in old-age homes of Kolkata city in terms of perceived social environment

Table-15: Comparison between the elderly people whose duration of stay is below and above five years in family settings of Kolkata city in terms of perceived social environment

Table-16: Comparison between the elderly people whose duration of stay is below and above five years in old-age homes of Kolkata city in terms of perceived changing values of younger generation
Table-17: Comparison between the elderly people whose duration of stay is below and above five years in family settings of Kolkata city in terms of changing values of younger generation

Table-18: Comparison between the elderly nuclear and joint families of Kolkata city in terms of perceived physical environment

Table-19: Comparison between the elderly residing in nuclear and joint families of Kolkata city in terms of perceived social environment

Table-20: Comparison between the elderly residing in nuclear and joint families of Kolkata city in terms of perceived changing values of younger generation

Table-21: Comparison between the elderly people residing in single rooms and dormitories of old-age home of Kolkata city in terms of perceived physical environment

Table-22: Comparison between the elderly people residing in single rooms and dormitories of old-age home of Kolkata city in terms of perceived social environment

Table-23: Comparison between the elderly people residing in single rooms and dormitories of old-age home of Kolkata city in terms of perceived changing values of younger generation

Table-24: Comparison between the elderly people residing in old-age homes and family settings of Kolkata city whose duration of stay is below five years in the same environment in terms of perceived physical environment, social environment and changing values of younger generation
Comparison between the elderly people residing in old-age homes and family settings of Kolkata city whose duration of stay is above five years in the same environment in terms of perceived physical environment, social environment and changing values of younger generation.

Physical problems as suffered by the elderly residing in home and family environment.

Mental problems as suffered by the elderly residing in home and family environment.

Major reasons for residential satisfaction and dissatisfaction as perceived by the elderly residing in home environment.

Major reasons for residential satisfaction and dissatisfaction as perceived by the elderly residing in different families of Kolkata city.