ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The author would like to express his sincere gratitude to Dr. Ranjan Bhattacharya, Professor, Production Engineering Department for guiding the thesis work. For his kind encouragement, advice and the time he spent with the author at various stages of this work, the author is ever thankful to Professor Ranjan Bhattacharya. He has been a constant source of inspiration. The author is also grateful to Mrs. Bhattacharya for her constant support.

The author is immensely grateful to Dr. B. Bhattacharya, Professor and ex-head, Production Engineering Department, who has taught the author how to pursue serious research and who has allowed the author to use a lot of facilities of laboratories under him.

The author would like to thank Dr. Bijan Sarkar, Professor and Head, Production Engineering Department for his constant encouragement during the course of progress of the research studies.

The author got immense benefit from the critical comments and suggestions given by Shri S. Sarkar, Sr. Lecturer of the aforesaid Department. But his help during all stages of the work, the thesis would have been impossible to complete.

The author thanks warmly Prof. (Dr.) J Saha, Prof. (Dr.) S. K. Sanyal, Prof. (Dr.) B. N. Lahiri, all ex-heads of Production Engineering Department, Dr. A. Dutta, Shri S.K. Debnath, Dr. S. Mitra, Dr. S. Chakraborty, Dr. B. N. Dolo, all Readers and Shri A. S. Kuar, Sr. Lecturer, Production Engineering Department, for their enthusiastic support in a variety of ways.

Special thanks are due to several students of Post Graduate course of Simulation Theory and Applications, especially Shri Dua, Shri Priti Sekhar Raptan and Shri B.
Bhattacharya. The author also thanks tremendously Shri Probal Bose for his assistance during the different stages of thesis processing.

Last, but not the least, the author would like to express his deepest appreciations to his beloved father, mother, elder sister, brother-in-law, brother, sister-in-law for the warmth and understanding displayed by them. But for the constant encouragement given by the parents of the author, his very accommodative wife and son, the work would have been only a dream for the author.

The author dedicates his full work to his parents.