Acknowledgements

This Ph.D. thesis is the result of a lot of support and encouragement from a number of sources. I would like to place my gratitude on record.

This thesis would not have been possible without the help of several people. First of all, I would like to thank Dr. Sumitra Kulkarni, Professor and Head, Department of History, University of Pune, for accepting to supervise my work, for teaching how to read Modi scripts, and for her valuable suggestions and encouragement throughout my work. Without her guidance, there was little possibility of this work being completed.

I am thankful to Dr. R.P. Ranade, Professor and Dr. D.S. Gaikwad, Professor, Department of History of University of Pune for their important suggestions.

I am especially thankful to late Dr. A.R. Kulkarni, Emeritus Professor, Department of History, University of Pune, for suggesting me to study the history of Indapur. Dr. Girish Mandke, Curator of Maratha History Museum, Deccan College, helped me to collect the documents about Indapur which Dr. A.R. Kulkarni transcribed from Modi scripts to Devanagari.

I am thankful to the Staffs of the following libraries and institutions – The Pune Archives, the Mumbai Archives, the Kolhapur Archives, the National Archives of India, the British Library, the Bharat Itihas Samshodak Mandal, Deccan College’s Maratha History Museum, and Jaykar Library. Late Mr. Sudhir Khare, Mr. S.T. Ranadive, Mr. K.P. Lokhande, Mr. S.D. Wadker, Mr. M.A. Patil and Mr. N.A. Sargar helped me to improve the ability to read Modi scripts and my research at the Pune Archives.

I am thankful to Dr. Sujata Ajay Mahajan, In-charge, Marathi Language Program, American Institute of Indian Studies for teaching Marathi. I am also thankful to Dr. Dusan Deak, Reader and Head, Department of Ethnology and World Studies, University of Saints Cyril and Methodius in Trnava, Dr. Jon Keune, PD Scholar, Centre for Modern Indian Studies, University of Goettingen, and Dr. Shailendra Bhandare, Assistant Keeper, South Asian Numismatics Member, Faculty of Oriental Studies, University of Oxford for their inspiring suggestions.

I would like to thank Mizuho International Foundation and the Risona Foundation for Asia and Oceania for their financial support for my work. I am also thanking to Dr. Tsukasa Mizushima, Professor, The Graduate School of Humanities and Sociology, The University of Tokyo, Dr. Hiroyuki Kotani, Emeritus Professor, The Tokyo Metropolitan University and Dr. Nariaki Nakazato, Emeritus Professor, The Graduate School of Humanities and Sociology, The University of Tokyo for helping me to pursue my work in University of Pune.

Last but not the least I would like to thank my family and friends for all the help and support they have extended to me all through. The responsibility of all omissions and errors is entirely mine.
