Bibliography

Chatterjee, Partha, 1984, 'Gandhi and the Critique of Civil Society' in Guha, Ranajit, ed., Subaltern Studies III, Delhi, Oxford University Press.

Desai, A.R., 1948, Social Background of Indian Nationalism, Delhi, Oxford University Press.

— 1948 (3rd enlarged edition), Cent Percent Swadeshi or The Economics of Village Industries (Collection of Gandhi’s writings on the subject), Ahmedabad, Navajivan Publishing House.

— Harijan in 1968, The Collected Works of Mahatma Gandhi, op. cit., [Harijan was a weekly journal founded by Gandhiji and published under the auspices of the Servants of the Untouchables Society (Harijan Sevak Sangha), Poona. It had a succession of editors: R.V. Sastri (February 11, 1933 to April 5, 1935), Mahadev Desai (April 13, 1935 to October 20, 1940 and January 18, 1942 to August 16, 1942), Pyarelal (February 10, 1946 to February 22, 1948), K. G. Mashruwala (April 4, 1948 to September 13, 1952), M. P. Desai (September 20, 1952 to February 25, 1956), when it was published from Ahmedabad. The paper was suspended during the “Individual Satyagraha” against War in 1940, and again in 1942 on the eve of the ‘Quit India’ movement and Gandhiji’s arrest and incarceration. The management came over to the Navajivan Trust, Ahmedabad, simultaneously with its revival on January 18, 1942. In 1946 (when publication was resumed) and 1947, the paper published the reports of Gandhiji’s prayer speeches during his tours of

160
West and East Bengal and Bihar and stay in Delhi, during a period of unprecedented communal turmoil. Started originally as the mouth piece of the movement for the removal of untouchability under Gandhiji’s leadership, Harijan soon became the authentic forum for the expression of his views on all major subjects, constituting thus a basic source of his writings till death.]

[Weekly paper edited by Gandhi and published by Navajivan Publishing House, Ahmedabad, from October 8, 1919. On Gandhi’s imprisonment in 1922, Shuaib Qureshi took over the editorship, from March 30, 1922 and continued as editor till May, 25,1922. C.Rajagopalachari then assumed editorship on June 1, 1922, and functioned till September 20, 1923. After him, George Joseph took over the responsibility from September 27, 1923 and acted as editor till March 27,1924.

Gandhi resumed editorship of the paper on release from jail, on April 3, 1924 and carried on as editor till May 8, 1930. One issue after this date appeared under the editorship of J.C.Kumarappa. During the period July 17, 1930 to March 5, 1931, the paper appeared in the form of cyclostyled sheet, published by M.M. Bhatt. On March 12, 1931, Gandhi once again became the editor, holding that position till December 31, 1931, after which the weekly ceased its publication. During 1919-31, except for the term of his imprisonment in 1922-24 and his absence at the second Round Table conference in 1931, the weekly carried his innumerable writings and reports of his important speeches, becoming a basic source for the period.]

— 1992, ‘The Imaginary Institution of India’ in Chatterjee, Partha and Pandey, Gyanendra, eds., Subaltern Studies VII, Delhi, Oxford University Press.

— 1946 (1993), The Discovery of India, New Delhi, Oxford University Press.

— 1964, Jawaharlal Nehru's Speeches Vol.s 1-4, New Delhi, Publications Division, Govt. of India.

Parekh, Bhikhu and Pantham, Thomas, eds., 1987, Political Discourse—Explorations in Indian and Western Political Thought, New Delhi, Sage Publications.

Tagore, Rabindranath, 1950 edition, (Collection of four lectures on 'nationalism' delivered during his lifetime), Nationalism, Delhi, Macmillan India.

National Seminar Papers: “Nation-Building, Development Process and Communication - A National Seminar in Search of India’s Renaissance” was held in New Delhi on December 3-7, 1988. Source of the papers: NASS DOC, ICSSR, New Delhi.

Some Papers of that seminar:

Gopal, Sarvepalli, ‘Nation-Building, Development Process and Communications: A Historical Perspective’.

Joshi, P.C., ‘Nation - Building, Development Process and Communication– In search of India’s Renaissance’.

Khan, Rasheeduddin, ‘Problems of Nation-Building in India’.

Kothari, Rajni, ‘Indian Democracy in Turmoil’.

Swarup, Shanti, ‘The Imperative of Nation-Building’.

Thapar, Romila, ‘Nation-Building, Development Process and Communications: Towards A Renaissance. Some Historical Perspectives Drawing On Early Times’.