Acknowledgement

I gratefully acknowledge the help and support extended to me by my supervisors Dr. Soumitra Basu and Dr. Lopamudra Choudhury in the course of supervising this thesis. I am deeply indebted to my teachers at the departments of Philosophy at Presidency College, University of Calcutta and Jadavpur University. I owe my knowledge of the subject to them. I would like to specially mention the benefits I have received from my participation in the weekly Research Scholars’ Seminar organized by the Department of Philosophy, Jadavpur University. I shall be ungrateful not to mention the cooperation of my colleagues at the Department of Philosophy and the Life World at Vidyasagar University, Midnapore. Had they not always been ready to relieve me of any workload whenever I came up with a request, finishing this work within the stipulated time would have been impossible. My friends Dr. Debjani Das, Mr. Bikas Mondal, Dr. Atreyee Mukhopadhyay, Dr. Sabita Samanta, Dr. Sovanjan Sarkar and Dr. Shubhajit Sengupta provided more than emotional support, invaluable advice and suggestions in times of crisis. The last gentlemen has also devoted his precious time reading and commenting extensively on an earlier draft of the work. I would also like to thank the library staff at the Department of Philosophy, Jadavpur University and at the National Library, Kolkata. I am grateful to my family which has always been very much supportive. Finally, but for the enthusiasm, constant encouragement and unquestioning support of my father I perhaps would never have the courage to attempt writing a thesis. At this very moment I am also bitterly missing my mother who would have been the happiest person on earth to have looked at the completed work.
