ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost, I wish to place on record my profound gratitude to Dr. G.Y. Shiltole, my esteemed guide and mentor, for giving me an opportunity to work on this topic. I would like to express my sincere thanks to him for his enormous support, enthusiastic encouragement, patience and tolerance which enabled me to be persistent and accomplish my goal. His valuable guidance, insightful comments and constructive recommendations triggered and nourished my intellectual maturity. He had confidence in me when I doubted myself and brought out the good ideas in me. Without his constant support I could not have finished this research. I am greatly indebted to him.

I also wish to place on record my sincere thanks to Dr. Sanjay S. Kapthan and Dr. Ram Sable for their encouragement and support in various ways.

I owe my sincere thanks to Mr. J. C. Sharma, Retired Professor, Tata Institute of Social Sciences for his guidance in the application of statistical tools in the research work for analysis of the data.

I would like to say special thanks to Dr. M. Ranganathan, Head, Department of Commerce, University of Madras, Chennai, for triggering my interest in this subject and for giving me an opportunity to realize my capabilities.

I also extend my thanks to Dr. A. Besant C. Raj, founder and ex-chairman of Institute of Chartered Financial Analysts of India (ICFAI),
Hyderabad, my first employer for giving me an opportunity to learn the operations of the stock market.

I owe my sincere gratitude to my husband Mr. N. Thyagarajan for giving me unconditional support and encouragement to pursue my interest and for believing in me. His constant motivation practically made this research work a reality. I am highly obliged to my little children Ananya Krithika and Abishekraj for their enormous support. Without their co-operation, it would not have been possible for me to accomplish my goal.

My parents deserve special mention for their inseparable support, blessings and prayers. No words can adequately express my gratitude to my mother for helping me to successfully complete my research work.

I would also like to thank all my respondents of primary data and employees of ICICI Prudential Mutual Fund, HDFC Mutual Fund and Franklin Templeton Mutual Fund for their valuable information. My special thanks are extended to the distributors for enabling me to visit their office to observe their daily operations and dealings with their clients.

Last but not the least; I would like to thank my sister, brother-in-law, my other family members and my friends who provided me endless support and encouragement all the time.

Gomathy Shankari Thyagarajan