Acknowledgement

My thesis would be incomplete if I do not mention a few words of gratitude towards all who helped me in my endeavours. I am indebted to my supervisor, Dr. P. S. Khillare, who helped throughout my research in guiding and motivating me constantly. Working under his guidance was a fine training which I would cherish all my life.

My special thanks to Prof. D. K. Banerjee for his valuable advice. He was kind enough to keep a watch on the progress of my work, which helped me immensely to remain focused.

I acknowledge Prof. K. Datta, Dean, School of Environmental Sciences, JNU for providing all the necessary facilities to completing this work.

The fellowship granted by the University Grants Commission for the study period is sincerely acknowledged.

I would also like to extend my heartfelt thanks to all the faculty and staff members of School of Environmental Sciences, JNU, especially Prof. V. Subramanian for providing me the access to Gas Chromatograph in his lab. Dr. P. G. Gaekwad, Mr. B. D. Sharma and Mr. Venkat deserve a particular mention for their technical hands.

I am extremely thankful to the library staff of IIT Delhi, IARI, TERI and National Medical Library for providing me the required facility and helping me locating the resources.

I would like to extend my hearty gratitude to Mr. Gyan Batra, Director NUCON Engineers Ltd. who introduced me to Gas Chromatographic techniques.

My special thanks to Dr. Balachandran, Dr. Manju Rawat and Mr. Tamil Selvan who have been crucial help at crucial times, especially in finalising the thesis. My lab members Tripti, Vijay, Tejveer and Hoshiar Singh have been very co-operative and assisting.

I also take this opportunity to thank all my friends Bhaskar, Sailaja, Meenakshi, Wakeel, Ameen, Irfan, Shams, Deepak, Fahmi, Baharul, Jagdish, Raju, Vipin, Pradeep, Arvind, Vikas, Subbu, Madhavan, Abhimanyu, Dhiru and Balu for their unconditional support and motivation.
I cannot eschew to mention my family members, who deserve more than a written acknowledgement, for their quiet sacrifice and prayers.

I want to say the obvious to Teresa, who has been the source of inspiration.

Raza Rafiqul Hoque