ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Here I would like to acknowledge those, whose assistance and contribution has been instrumental in the realization of this dissertation, which otherwise would not have been possible. I feel fortunate that a large number of people have contributed to and influenced me during my research work but all can’t be mentioned, however, none is forgotten.

First and foremost, I bow my head in reverence to the Almighty God for providing me the positive strength and energy to work on this project and enabling me to reach far beyond my restricted ambit of thoughts and actions.

I would like to acknowledge my loving Mother, Mrs. Anita Sharma who always believed in my strengths and blessed me for a bright career. Unfortunately she could not survive to see this day. With wet eyes, I recall all those moments whenever she had shown her belief in my ability to complete this project, and helped me to “keep the faith” when I thought I would never be able to complete it. I always acknowledge the values and guidance she had provided me since my childhood. I pay my deep regards to her and pray to the Almighty God to bless her soul in peace.

Furthermore, I feel indebted to my father, Sh. Kasturi Lal Sharma who have always been a guiding light and an ideal for me. Words cannot express the gratitude that I owe to him. My life would have been at a different plane, had he not cared to provide me the best educational facilities right from my childhood. He has always clearly displayed his confidence in me which in turn has provided me with confidence in myself. I warmly thank him for giving me ample time and space so that I could work on this project.

I would like to express my deep and sincere gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. Balwinder Singh, Reader, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, for intellectual, creative, and affectionate support throughout this research work. His wide knowledge and logical way of thinking have been of great value for me. His understanding, encouraging and personal guidance have provided a sound basis for the present thesis. Without his constant inspiration, I would not have been able to successfully handle this Herculean task. He has been patient enough in guiding me since the very first draft of the dissertation. Many thanks to him for his understanding and generosity in keeping his doors open all the time.

My deepest thanks are due to Dr. Subhash Chander, Professor, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, for his morale boosting words throughout my research period. His constructive criticism and excellent advice during the preparation of this thesis have added immense value to the dissertation.

I am thankful to Mr. Nitin Arora, Lecturer in Economics, School of Social Sciences, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, who has provided valuable comments, and has spent many hours verifying the appropriateness of the econometric models used in the empirical tests. He has been kind enough to help me in understanding and applying various econometrical methodologies in the present study.

The completion of this dissertation is for me a milestone that could not have been reached without the encouragement and support of my husband, Mr. Sachin Khanna who has provided me with love, guidance, inspiration, encouragement and joy. I would like to extend my most sincere appreciation to him. It is difficult for me to express how much he has meant to me over the past four years. Words can only touch the surface of my gratitude for all he has done for me. Let it suffice to say he is the greatest man I have ever met, and I am privileged to be his wife.

My two years old son, Rehan who is an integral part of me deserves many thanks for his continuous support throughout this project. I feel that I have spent more time on my pc than to be with him, but he has been supportive enough. He has been a source of joy and inspiration, and constantly shows me what is really important in life.

I owe a great debt to my in-laws for their moral support, understanding and loving care. My sincere thanks to my Father-in-law, Mr. K. K. Khanna who has always blessed me for a bright career. My Mother-in-law, Mrs. Kavita Khanna has provided invaluable support and child care assistance. I also acknowledge my Brothers and sisters-in-laws for their direct and indirect positive influences. My sister-in-law, Dr. Punam Khanna has been a constant source of encouragement.
I am deeply thankful to my brothers, Mr. Rajesh Sharma and Mr. Rohit Sharma for providing me all kind of emotional backup during my research work. They have contributed their maximum efforts for the completion of this dissertation. Their prayers and encouragement have always been a source of my strengths and endurance. They are the best brothers I had ever expected for. In addition, I am deeply thankful to my Bhabhi, Mrs. Rashmi Sharma for inspiring me throughout the project and infusing positive energy into me. Without her deep care and support for my loving son during the completion of this project, I would not have been able to successfully handle this Herculean task.

I am also thankful to the doctoral students in the Department of Commerce and Business Management, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, especially Mrs. Reema Sharma, Ms. Savita Sharma, Mrs. Pooja Malhotra, Ms. Poonam Sharma, Mrs. Shefali Sharma, Mrs. Shikha Sehgal, Mrs. Sarika Mahajan and Ms. Sweety Narang, who were always there to motivate me whenever I went through emotional ups and downs during my research work. I am extremely appreciated of my colleagues, especially Mrs. Sonu Madan and Mrs. Priyanka Aggarwal in the Maharishi Markandeshwar Institute of Management, Maharishi Markandeshwar University, Mullana-Ambala. They have all provided and continue to provide a tremendous amount of support.

I am extremely grateful to the library staff who have been very accommodating in all my academic needs. This work would have been incomplete without consulting the departmental and main libraries of Guru Nanak Dev University.

I acknowledge the financial assistance provided to me by University Grant Commission of India under the research fellowship programme. I would like to thank Pioneer Computers for providing me best services throughout the project.

Last but not the least, my profound thanks go to the faculty of Department of Commerce and Business Management, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, especially the Head of Department, Dr. Lakhwinder Singh, who was kind enough to provide me ample time and space, without which this task could not be completed in this manner.
