ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My Ph.D. journey of four years has been very thrilling and enlightening. I would like to thank many people from various fields who have made substantial contributions in making these years the most memorable ones.

Foremost, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Sushil Kumar Jalali for his valuable support, motivation, enthusiasm and patience during the course of my Ph.D. He not only helped me in my research and writing of my thesis but also helped me evolve into a better person. I could not have asked for a better guide than him. Words will fall short to express his importance in my career.

I am thankful to all the previous Directors of ICAR-NBAIR, Bengaluru, where I carried out my Ph.D. work with all the facilities available under the one roof. I would like to thank Dr. N. K. Krishna Kumar former director of ICAR-NBAIR, who first introduced me to this institute and allowed me to carry out my work. Dr. Bhumannaver, former director of ICAR-NBAIR, I would like to thank the present director of ICAR-NBAIR Dr. Chandis R. Ballal. I would also like to thank Dr. T. M. Shivalingaswamy for their constant support towards completion of my Ph.D. work and encouragement to achieve higher goals.

My sincere thanks to Emeritus Prof. Dr. T. M. Mushtak Ali and Prof. Dr. C. A. Viraktamath for sharing their knowledge in insect identification and helping to separate ant species into their tribes and several other insects were identified by them morphologically and helped to clear my doubts upon molecular identifications made by me.

I am thankful to Dr. J. Poorani for providing insects from insect museum from national repository of insects at ICAR-NBAIR, Madam also helped in identification of unknown insect species collected from Kaas Plateu, Western Ghats and The Great Rann of Kutch, Gujarat. My thanks are due to Dr. Sunil Joshi for identifying aphids and mealybug species, Dr. K. J. David for identifying fruitfly collections and Dr. Y. Lalitha for providing insects from her collections and field trips.

I would not have finished my Ph.D. without help of my seniors Dr. Basanth and Dr. Guruprasad were helping and advising to stay calm like an elder brother they motivated me to work beyond my comfort zone. Moments spent with them will always be close to my heart including fun during trips and in the campus canteen. I also would like to thank Ms. Naglakshmi G. for her help in my project work. I wish to thank my friends Mr. Sanjay, Mr. Sharath and Mr. Cruz for sharing ideas and discussions from other fields of science.

I would also like to thank lab assistant boys, Mr. Harish, Mr. Arun and Mr. Prakash for their prompt support and for stimulating fun environment in the lab during their presence. I would also like to thank Mrs. Hema and Mrs. Saraswathi for their assistance in insect culture maintenance whenever required.

A mere word of thanks to my friend and Ph.D. classmate, Ashika T. R., is not enough who, like an elder has been a constant source of motivation. She was always there to boost my moral. I am thankful to have a friend like her.

I take pleasure in paying regards to all my teachers who taught me throughout my education. Their benevolent guidance has given strength and wings to my academic career all these years. I also thank teachers of Jain University, Dr. Mythili and Pro. V. C. Dr. Sandeep Shastri and staff for their untiring support during my tenure.

I also acknowledge Indian Council of Agricultural Research and its project components viz, NAIP, NASF and CRP on Genomics project for providing fellowships in various projects in which I worked as Senior Research Fellow at ICAR-NBAIR.

Lastly and most importantly, I wish to thank my Maa and Papa who are the best parents anybody can have. They always advised to work hard with utmost level of honesty. It is because of their perseverance, patience and optimism that I have been able to achieve this. I will always be grateful to my Bhua and Fufaji, I stayed in their house in Bengaluru away from my native during my Masters Degree programme and initial years of my Ph.D. programme and had a great time being with the family.

I bow my head and with folded hands thank Mother Earth for always showering her blessings upon me.
