ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Indeed it gives me immense pleasure to mention the people behind this work. There are several noble souls who have made my life better and memorable during my stay on campus of Panjab University, Chandigarh. I shall be doing injustice to myself if I do not mention them at this juncture. At the outset I must thank Panjab University, Chandigarh for having provided me place to grow intellectually.

I would like to use this opportunity to thank my supervisor Professor Ashutosh Kumar, whom I have never been able to thank for his unflinching support and for showing his faith in me. He preached and practiced democracy during every minute of interaction with us (students and Research Scholars) for more than five years by now. I am grateful to him to give me space where I was able to nurture and express my ideas without any hesitation. I thank him for patiently reading and redirecting several drafts of thesis and giving his valuable suggestions.

I am highly obliged to the Chairperson Prof. Pampa Mukherjee who helped me with her valuable suggestions regarding methodology and for her specific suggestion to remain focused in research during my Synopsis presentation and also for providing knowledgeable inputs to this work.

I would like to thank Prof. Bhupinder Brar for encouraging me all the time and providing the assistance a student really requires.

I would like to extend my thanks to Professor Ronki Ram for his productive inputs at various juncture of my work. His motivation at the primary stages helped me sustain throughout the course of this work.

I would also like to extend my thanks to Professor Sanjay Chaturvedi for his help for guiding us with research methodology and literature review at nascent stage. His advice to take PhD as an enjoyable task rather than a tedious job help me a lot throughout the course of study.

Moving a little back on this time scale I would like to thank Dr. Kailash K.K. for his kind suggestions regarding the research, especially his inputs with respect to selection of the topic. His selfless and valuable guidance in the very beginning helped me throughout the course of this study.
Further I am highly thankful to Dr. Deepak K. Singh for his guidance and support in terms of the technical inputs needed for this work. His advice that Ph.D is about coming up with something ‘new’, pushed me to engage and think more deeply about my work. I am also thankful to Janki Srinivasan for her kind suggestions with regard to the writings and the literature available on the subject and her expert views she provided me during the synopsis presentation. The discussions with Dr. Navjot on methodology at a nascent stage of research during a workshop on ‘Qualitative Methods and Techniques in Social Science Research’ made me familiar with the essential components of the research. I feel blessed to have been guided by such mentors.

My sincere thanks to Aruna Ma’m, Vineeta Ma’m, Saven Sir, Paramjit Sir, Gurmeet, Birbal Sir, Ravi Sir, Gopal ji and Jasbir ji for being so cooperative and helpful.

I am grateful to Martijn Koster for his help with literature and replies to mails to improve the quality of my thesis.

The fieldwork done over these years exposed me to those realms of ideas of which I was completely ignorant. Not only in terms of ideas, but I also gathered new relationship during this period both personal and professional, which I will treasure all throughout my life. My special thanks to the people of Madrasi Colony, Slum Colony Sector-25, Nehru Colony and Labour Colony Number-4 for their help and patience in interacting with me, without their help I would not been in a position to complete this work in such a manner.

A special Note of thanks to Mansa Ram, Manoj pradhan (pradhans at Madrasi Colony), Shalu (Mahila Mandal pradhan Sector-25 Colony), Anil pradhan (pradhan at Sector-25 Colony), Bansy pradhan (veteran local leader at Nehru Colony), Raju, Sunita, Chibbu Yadav (Local leaders at Colony number-4) and Rajkumari Mishra (Mahila Mandal Pradhan at Colony No.-4) giving their valuable time in accompanying me to the slums during my first visit to the field and making me acquainted with slum areas.

I am obliged to Bindu Duggal (CRRID), Manoj Kumar Tesotia (CRRID), Emeritus Professor Gopal Krishan ji, Professor Rajeev Lochan, Prof. Manjeet Singh, Prof. Rajesh Gill, Navprit Kaur (Freelancer Writer), Kanchan Chandan (Research
I am highly indebted to Mr. Swaran Singh Wadhwan (Inspector Labour and Factories, U.T. Chandigarh), Mr. Kamal Bhardwaj (Statistical Department U.T. Chandigarh), Mr. Vasudev Anadi (Census Department Chandigarh) who provided useful information/data required for this work.

An exclusive note of Thanks to Nishant Rohta who has helped me a lot with the field study. I would like to thank Kevin, Hardeep Kaur and Khushboo Mahajan who have accompanied and helped me during my visits to the slum colonies, various other organisations and persons. Capturing the reality from the field would not be possible without the help of you.

My other friends Amrit Negi, Sachna Arora, Jagjit Kaur, Rasvir Rehal, Jony Ranta, Mussarat, have supported me in both covert and overt ways. Thanks for helping me to cope up with the situation when I was all burdened with ideas, concepts and doubts. I would also like to extend my thanks to my colleagues Prakriti Ranjen, Ritu Khosla, Savita Thapar ma’am and the students at MCM-DAC College. UGC-JRF fellowship has supported me financially to complete my research.

My family has been a constant source of strength for me. Their immense love and support stands as an exception. I would not have been able to complete the work in a comfortable ways without them.

And finally I dedicate my work to my mother. Unconditional love of my mother has always helped me sail forward in life, even when she is physically not present with me.
