ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

If words could provide enough justice to my feelings, I would like to acknowledge every force and individual that touched my life during the course of Ph.D. First and foremost a successful completion of this research work could be possible with the blessings of Maa Durga. Besides my personal beliefs, it will always be astonishing for me to see her as a part of my academic advancement as well. Also, I would like to use this opportunity to thank my family, my parents, my sister and my brothers for their never ending support and love through all these years of hard work. I’d like to extend respect to both my maternal and paternal grandparents for their blessing I could always feel.

To the mentor of my most formative and challenging years of life, to Prof. Smita Bhutani, from my most humble and grateful heart I would like to thank her for believing in me from day one and accepting me as her student despite being from a different university. There is no enough vocabulary to suit my gratitude towards her for teaching me the most ardent lessons about the philosophy life through her spiritual beliefs. For all the personal care, prolific career guidance, critical evaluation and nonchalant teachings, I shall always feel indebted to her.

To late Mr. C. R. Pakrashi, I would like to convey my most respectful and honourable regard. I want to thank him for his inexhaustible patience while narrating to me the entire first-hand information on the history of Bengali migrants in Delhi. His sense of time and exemplary level of energy at a senior age of 93 always added to my profound interest in this study. To him, I owe the basis of this thesis; the very foundation stone of it.

I am also beholden to Dr. Shibani Bose (Visiting Fellow, University of Minnesota) and Dr. Sudeshna Bhattacharya (Department of Geography, Delhi University) for providing me with best of their links and knowledge about the Bengali families residing in Delhi in the commencement of my research work. I also thank Dr. Praveen Mishra for helping with his enduring cartographic skills. I also owe sincere thanks to Dr. Mayank Shersiya for his invaluable statistical guidance and support.

I am deeply grateful to both, the former Chairperson Prof. Ravinder Kaur and the present Chairperson Dr. Simrit Kahlon for their constant support and timely help.

I would also like to oblige to Prof. Surya Kant, Prof. Dhian Kaur, Prof. Karanjot Kaur Brar, Prof. Krishna Mohan, Dr. Gaurav Kalotra, Dr. Navneet Kaur, Dr. Vishwa Bandhu Singh for their perpetual words of encouragement and motivation. I also convey my humble thanks to all the non-teaching staff of the Department of Geography for making the ambiance easier for the researchers with their happy faces and timely help.

I owe a huge part of my success to my friends, Dr. Surya Tiwari and Anupama Shashni who strengthens my belief in the essence of human kindness by always seeking means for helping me. To my other friends Reena, Suman, Archana, Rohini, Preeti Chauhan, Preeti I owe them a huge gesture of thanks for tolerating my cribbing and listening to my incessant rants. Besides my academic advancement from this department, I will be taking from here a cherishable box of memories.

For any small or big contribution; from the deepest crevices of my heart, kindly accept my token of acknowledgement and regard for yourself.
