ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I bow to the merciful and compassionate ‘Supreme Lord’ with whose grace and kindness, I could reach up to this stage of my academic career.

Nothing in this world is sufficient to repay so precious a debt as that of learning, it can only be acknowledged through gratitude. The enlightened torchbearer’s insight makes all the difference between the spirit and celebration of learning than ‘cold understanding’. I feel greatly privileged to express my deep sense of gratitude and sincerest regards to my esteemed supervisor Dr Sucha Singh Gill, Professor, Department of Economics, Punjabi University, Patiala for untiring and whole hearted help, inspiring guidance, moral encouragement, unfailing courtesy, proper visualization, parental affection and constructive suggestion during the entire span of study and preparation of this manuscript. His infinite wisdom, professional competence and a tender heart are the virtues which makes it an unforgettable experience to work under the supervision of such a dedicated guide.

I feel doubly privileged to work under revered Dr R.S. Sidhu, Dean, College of Basic Sciences and Humanities, Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana, as my Co-Supervisor for the study. I, with sincere gratitude and overwhelming indebtedness, wish to extend my thanks to him for his inspirational and dexterous guidance, sustained encouragement, invaluable time, illuminating help and kind supervision all through the span of study. The sense of indebtedness is absolutely inexpressible.

Interdependence is a higher value than independence.

I owe my heartfelt thanks to Drs R.S. Ghumman, Kamaljeet Kaur Gill, Lakhwinder Singh Gill, Sukhwinder Singh, Anita Gill and Jaswinder Singh Brar, faculty members of the Department of Economics, Punjabi University, Patiala for their ungrudging help and valuable suggestions during the execution of the study.

I am deeply indebted to Drs A.S. Joshi, A.S. Bhillar, M.S. Sidhu, Sukhpal Singh, Poonam Kataria, Jasdev Singh Sidhu and Kamal Vatta, faculty members of the Department of Economics and Sociology, Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana for their ever-encouraging attitude, constant support, cooperation and timely help from time to time to carry the project to a successful conclusion.

I lack words to express my cordial thanks to Drs J.S. Bhatti, Rakesh Sharma, A.P.S. Dhaliwal, Balwinder Singh, S. Darbara Singh, Xen Ramtesh Singh Bains, Mr Parvinder Pal Singh and Mr Gur Milap Singh Brar for all their sincere help in the collection of primary data from all the nooks and corners of the study area.
I also extend my sincere thanks to the management and staff of various institutions and informal sources of finance for providing me the required information to execute the present study.

I shall be failing in my duty if I do not thank the respondent farmers for sparing their valuable time to provide me the data which constituted the base for this investigation.

My thanks are also due to the authorities of Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana for granting me leave for data collection.

It is indeed a matter of pride and personal gratification to receive all the cooperation and mounting encouragement from my husband. I owe a lot more than I could express in words to my daughters, my mother-in-law, brother and bhabi for their immense love, persistent support, silent prayers and best wishes.

No words can ever express my sincere and heartfelt feelings towards heavenly blessings of my parents, who in their short lives, harnessed my abilities to enable me to pen these words.

Ms Rajinder Kaur and Mr Balwant Singh deserve my special thanks for bringing out this manuscript in its presentable form.

Everyone cannot be mentioned in books but none is forgotten in hearts.
