Acknowledgement

The writing of this dissertation has been a herculean task and one of the biggest academic challenges so far. Without the support, patience and guidance of so many special people this work would not have been possible.

I am immensely grateful to the Supreme Father for his continuing shower of grace, which helped me in carrying out this task successfully.

I express my thanks to my role model, guide and philosopher i.e. my grandfather, Prof. Sriramamurti (retired professor of Sanskrit Department, Andhra University) for inspiring me throughout my life and for contributing his valuable thoughts with me.

I also thank Prof. Durgaprasada Rao for instigating my interest in the field of spirituality and in encouraging me to pursue my research in that direction.

I heartily thank my Supervisor Dr. Gur Pyari Jandial (Associate Professor, Dept. of English Studies) for her constant selfless and patient guidance. I also thank her for boosting my confidence and encouraging me whenever I needed her help.

I also express my gratitude to Prof. S.K Chauhan (Head, Dept. of English Studies) whose concern, patience and motivational words inspired me to give the finest of my efforts to my research.

I express my gratitude to all the critics whose insight into the works of Helena Blavatsky, Paul Brunton and William Dalrymple helped me in framing my own analysis.
I acknowledge my gratitude to the members of staff of the Library of the British Council, and Dayalbagh Educational Institute, who extended their kind co-operation, and help in procuring the research material for my dissertation.

I must also express gratitude to the other staff members of the Department of English, D.E.I, Prof. J.K. Verma, Dr. Renu Josan, Dr. V.Premlata, Dr. Sonal Singh, Dr. Shashi Srivastava, Dr. Meena Pydah, Dr. Lawleen Malhotra, Dr. Bani Dayal Dhir, and Dr. Namita Tyagi and for nourishing my knowledge at every step. I would also like to thank Sri Sahabchand for his constant encouragement and help.

I am grateful to my parents A. Dayal Pyari and A. Anand Swaroop and my sister Sadhana for standing by me and for being my pillars of strength. I also feel obliged to my whole brood of cousins who skyrocketed my confidence (when I needed it the most) and also helped me to have some fun. Snehith, Preetam and Anurag helped me procure my books, Surya, helped me with the last minute adjustments, Lavanya, Priyanka and my aunt Usha Rani stood by me with notes of reassurance.

Last but not the least I thank my friends Tanushree Kulshreshtha and Pragati Garg for providing the much needed leisurely and languid moments, the frequent discussions and (thankfully) for walking on the same path as me. I also extend thanks to my fellow classmates of M.Phil.
