References

Alegbeleye, O.O., Opeolu, B.O. and Jackson, V., 2017. Bioremediation of polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbon (PAH) compounds: (acenaphthene and fluorene) in water using indigenous bacterial species isolated from the Diep and Plankenburg rivers, Western Cape, South Africa. Braz. J. Microbiol. 48(2), 314-325.

Chapman, P.M. and Hollert, H., 2006. Should the sediment quality triad become a tetrad, a pentad, or possibly even a hexad?. J. Soils Sediments 6(1), 4-8.

El-Amrani, S., Sanz-Landaluze, J., Guinea, J. and Camara, C., 2013. Rapid determination of polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons (PAHs) in zebrafish eleutheroembryos as a model for the evaluation of PAH bioconcentration. Talanta 104, 67-74.

Hajisamoh, A., 2013. Pollution levels of 16 priority PAHs in the major rivers of Southern Thailand. J. Chem. 2(1), 7-11.

Juckpech, K., Pinyakong, O. and Rerngsamran, P., 2012. Degradation of polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons by newly isolated Curvularia

Kim, Y.H., Freeman, J.P., Moody, J.D., Engesser, K.H. and Cerniglia, C.E., 2005. Effects of pH on the degradation of phenanthrene and Mohana, S., Shrivastava, S., Divecha, J. and Madamwar, D., 2008. Response surface methodology for optimization of medium for ...

