ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The four years, I've spent at School of Physics, Devi Ahilya Vishwavidyalaya, Indore has given me source of most precious experience in my life both academically and socially. I would take the opportunity to acknowledge all those who have directly or indirectly helped me throughout this enjoyable journey. I wouldn't have made it to this point without the help from all the people around me, both inside and outside the University, and I owe my sincere gratitude to all of them.

So, in no specific order...

First I would like to thank Dr. Ashutosh Mishra for giving me the great opportunity to become a Ph.D. student and for doing his best to motivate and inspire me. He is a fabulous advisor: sharp, cheery, perceptive, and mindful of the things that truly matter. His selfless perseverance and attention to my work consistently found pearls among my heaps of data and he has thrown enough research questions my way to keep me busy the rest of my life. His continuous encouragement and guidance kept my enthusiasm alive, without which it would have been difficult to complete my thesis. He always clearly defined the problems and actively participated in their solutions with the help of his extensive knowledge and intuition. His sincerity, punctuality and disciplined work groomed my research aptitude. It is an honor for me to be one of his students.

Thanks are due to other faculty members specially Dr. A.K. Dutta, Dr. D. Varshney, Dr. P. Sen, Dr. G. Mishra, Dr. M. Banerjee, Dr. S. N. Kane, and Dr. Y. Choyal, School of Physics, D.A.V.V., Indore, M.P.

I would like to thanks Dr. Pratibha Sharma and Dr. Ashok Sharma, School of Chemical Science, Devi Ahilya University Indore, for their help me in samples preparation studied in the present investigation, giving me the right direction when needed the most and their generous guidance.
Thanks to Dr. T. Sripathy, Dr. N. P. Lalla, and Dr. V. R. Reddy for accessing the characterization facilities at UGC-DAE-CSIR, Indore.
