Acknowledgement

This work is a result of collective efforts of many individuals to whom I am deeply indebted in terms of their intellectual, moral and other necessary logistic supports without which it would not have been possible for me.

First and foremost, I acknowledge with deep gratitude the intellectual support, guidance and encouragement that I got from my supervisor Dr. Jayanta Mete, Professor, Dept. of Education, University of Kalyani. His persistent encouragement as well as relentless intellectual assistance remained the primary source of inspiration for me to pursue this work on effectiveness of various methods in teaching English.

I am also grateful to Prof. Shampa Chatterjee, Professor, ELT Dept, and at present Director of the Institute of English, Kolkata who has inspired me to take up this study. In this respect, I am also thankful to Dr. Muktipada Sinha, Assistant Professor of Education, Dept. of Education, Jadavpur University, Kolkata.

I would like to express my special gratitude and thanks to all the respected faculty members of the Department of Education of the University of Kalyani.

I am glad to express her best gratitude to Prof. Amiya Jana, Principal of my college, Siddhinath Mahavidyalaya for his kind advice and suggestions. I must mention the name of Mousmita Maiti, faculty, Dept. of Education for her active contribution in my research. I also express my best regard and gratitude to all the teachers and non-teaching staffs of this college for their kind advice and encouragement during the course of study.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to the judges and subject experts for their active co-operation and valuable suggestions for the development of the tool for measuring the performance of the students.

I also express my deep sense of indebtedness to the head teachers of the institutions who helped me to apply the tools and providing all the informations regarding the performance of the students who were taken as sample for the study.

I am also indebted to Prof. Tarak Pan, Professor, Dept of Education, Visvabharati and also thankful to Dr. Kajal Kanti Ghosh, Lecturer of Education College, Basantapur, who helped me in many respects in course of developing this tool and later investigations. I am also thankful to Dr. Puspita Ranjan Bhattacharya, Ex-Principal, Vijaygarh Jyotish Ray
College, Kolkata and Principal, Gyanjyoti College, Siliguri for his constant moral support for years.

This work would not have been possible without the kind support and help of my friends at University of Kayani, particularly Rajib Saha, Sougata Biswas and Manas Ranjan Kundu. I like to thank Mr. Nimai Bit, Jr. Assistant and Ashoke Chatterjee, Jr. Assistant of Ph.D. Section of our University for their helpful attitude in every aspect In this context mention must be made of my Madam cum research colleague cum friend cum elder sister, Miss Prarthita Biswas who has always been my source of inspiration and support. I am thankful to the ex-colleagues of my ex-school Kumarpur Jabarpur Kanailal Vidyaniketon (High School) for always supporting me in carrying out my Ph.D. work in a smooth manner.

I am glad to express thanks and best wishes to all the students who participated as the sample group, for their active co-operation, diligent attention and patience shown at the time of administering the tools.

I owe particularly debted to the British Council Library and American Central Library, also the librarian and assistants of this college for their co-operations. I remain thankful to Anindya Das, Clerk, Behala Kishor Bharati Girls’ High School for his active participation in computer section.

Further, I express my unlimited indebtedness to all the authors and publishers from whose works and publications she has been inspired much to prepare this thesis.

Last but not the least, I express my heartily thanks to my brother Soumya Kanti Sur, who supplied the constant support and continuous inspiration to complete this hard job.

Through the title of the study “Effectiveness of Direct Method and Bilingual Method of Teaching English at the Secondary Level in West Bengal” I have tried to focus and analyze the effect of two different method on teaching English at Secondary level in West Bengal. Also I am thankful to all the persons who has stood behind me silently for the last four years and I apologize sincerely if I have missed out any names.

My father Mr. Shyamal Kanti Sur and my mother Mrs. Shyamali Sur, who has always been the fountain head of all the support certainly needs no formal acknowledgement. Finally, I remain solely responsible for any errors and omissions in this thesis.
