ACKNOWLEDGMENT

It is a pleasant duty of mine to acknowledge with gratitude my indebtedness to Dr. R.B. Srivastava under whose kind and able guidance I completed this work. I am also thankful to my senior colleagues who is like my Guru Late Dr. Jokhu Singh, Shri R.S. Gupta (H.O.D) K.S. Saket P.G. college faizabad who encouraged me for completing this work. I am also thankful to my senior colleagues Shri Uday Singh, Dr. T. Shukla, Shri. A.K. Rai, Dr. K.K. Bajpai, Shri R.K. Srivastava and Smt. Mani Singh for their co-operation who help me a lot by providing books and journal for this study.

My thanks are also due to the library staff of K.S. Saket College Faizabad in their help from time to time for completing this work.

ASHISH KUMAR TRIPATHI
- American declaration of independence 1776
- French declaration of Right of Man 1791
- The Bill of Right in the American constitution 1789
- First ten amendment “Bill of rights” 1791
- Fundamental rights as a lamination of power
- Post war constitution India
- Furtherance of Demand for fundamental rights by United Nations

CHAPTER – IV

4. Issues affecting international Human Rights and governance
   - Individuals in International law
   - Universal jurisdiction and international crimes: Recent trends
   - War crimes: Genesis and development
   - Tribunal on war crimes and crimes against Humanity
     - Tribunal for Yugoslavia
     - Tribunal for Rwanda
     - Tribunal for Cambodia
   - Terrorism: An international crime
   - Terrorism and U.N.
   - International Criminal Court and terrorism

CHAPTER – V

5. The Fundamental Rights under the constitution of India
   - Right to equality: Article-14
     - Protective discrimination making equality meaningful
     - Protection for women and children-Article 15 (3)
     - Reservation for Backward classes-Article 15(4)
     - Abolition of untouchbality-Article 17
     - Abolition of Titles, Article 18