ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the completion of this work, I take the privilege to acknowledge my gratitude and indebtedness to Prof. A.C. Talukdar, former HoD of Political Science & Dean, Faculty of Social Sciences and Dr. P.K. Panigrahi, HoD of Political Science for their able guidance and supervision in writing this thesis. As teachers, they have always inspired and encouraged me towards academic pursuits. I owe my gratitude to numerous Gams, village elders, priests, panchayat members and other grassroot level leaders for their ready cooperation during the field study; to my colleagues in the Department of Political Science, J.N. College, Pasighat and the faculty members of the Department of Political Science, Arunachal University for their constant encouragement in my endeavour. I am also greatly indebted to some individuals like Marbi Kadu, Teluk Ragi, Tijen Dabi, Mado Doke, Ibom Doye, Inchak Lingu, Kenbom Karlo, Jumbom Gamlin, Topek Kakki and younger brother, Dabom Karlo, to name a few, for the help they rendered in visiting the field for collection of the data.

I owe my gratitude to the government of Arunachal Pradesh for granting study leave to enable me to complete this work; to the authorities and staffs of all the libraries and institutions from where I collected materials for this study.

Without my wife Api and daughters Zirjum & Untu, this work would have been less rewarding. They are constant source of inspiration for me.

I am also grateful to Sanjoy Roy, Department of Botany, Arunachal University, who typed this thesis without a word of protest.

Finally, I admit that the limitations and errors in judgement in this work are entirely mine.
