ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

As a student and researcher in Sociology, this research work is very close to my heart since it is through this work I got the opportunity to venture once again into the world of sports and relive my days as a sports person. However, this Ph.D dissertation would not have been possible without the constant guidance and assistance of some remarkable people who genuinely extended their valuable support to my thesis.

First and foremost, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my supervisor, Prof. (Dr.) Bula Bhadra (ma’am) for the continuous guidance, patience, motivation, and sharing immense knowledge throughout the tenure of my research work. Ma’am has been an excellent teacher and nurtured me to develop sociological insight and a critical orientation towards reality. Her undaunted spirit, superb articulateness and critical reasoning invigorated me to question and become more analytical towards social phenomena and social practices. Not only her insightful comments, but also her faculty to think beyond the horizon encouraged me to widen my research from various perspectives. I am extremely grateful for what ma’am has offered me i.e. apart from imparting academic and scholastic advice, ma’am has always extended her friendship, empathy, love and blessing which provided a conducive intellectual space to express myself and my views unreservedly. I could not have imagined having a better advisor and mentor for my Ph.D research and it was a great privilege and honour to work and study under her guidance.

I am indebted to Captain Nilima Barua (NCC, Jogamaya Devi College) for selflessly helping me by providing contacts of women athletes (i.e. my respondents) for conducting my field work. Without her consistent support this work would not have been successful.
I am also grateful to my family members, Baba (father), Ma (Mother), Bhalo Didi (elder sister) and Bhai (younger brother) for their patience and staying with me in all of the ups and downs during my research. Their blessing and persistent support has helped me to endure and overcome all the obstacles that I faced while conducting my research. My special gratitude goes to my sister and friend Smt. Kakali Roy who has been a vital source of strength throughout this research.

Completing this work would have been difficult were it not for the support and friendship provided by my senior fellow scholar Dr. Chandrabali Dutta (Assistant Professor, Dept. of Sociology, Hiralal Majumdar College), fellow research scholar Smt. Deepika Singh (Ph.D Research Scholar, Dept. of Sociology, University of Calcutta) and colleague Dr. Ananya Majumdar (Assistant Professor, Dept. of Sanskrit, Basanti Devi College) respectively. Their timely and invaluable assistance has helped me to keep things in perspective till the completion of my thesis.

I take this opportunity to specially thank all my respondents, who not only agreed to share their valuable time with me, but also provided valuable information which has qualitatively enriched this dissertation.

I must also thank Central Library and Alipur campus Library, University of Calcutta, for permitting me to access library facilities as and when required for my research work.

Finally, I would like to dedicate this thesis to all those women athletes of Bengal who have dared to dream and challenge the socially sanctioned life for them and have inspired others to do the same to fulfil their dreams and aspirations.
