This work is a result of collective efforts of many individuals to whom I am deeply indebted in terms of their intellectual, moral and other necessary logistic supports without which it would not have been possible for me.

First and foremost, I acknowledge with deep gratitude the intellectual support, guidance and encouragement that I got from my supervisor Dr. Jayanta Mete, Professor, Dept. of Education, University of Kalyani. His persistent encouragement as well as relentless intellectual assistance remained the primary source of inspiration for me to pursue this work on women’s education.

I am also grateful to Prof. Chittabrata Palit, Professor Emeritus and at present Director of the Institute of Historical Studies, Kolkata who has inspired me to take up this study. In this respect, I am also thankful to Dr. Keka Dutta Roy, Associate Professor of History, Prafulla Chandra College, Kolkata.

I would like to express my special gratitude and thanks to all the respected faculty members of the Department of Education of the University of Kalyani.

This work would not have been possible without the kind support and help of my teachers, friends, family members and colleagues. In this context mention must be made of my elder sister, Mrs. Paramita Aditya who has always been my source of inspiration and support. I am thankful to the management of the Pailan Group of Institutions for always supporting me in carrying out my Ph.D. work in a smooth manner.
I also remain indebted to my elder sister Smt. Pranati Dutta for always being there in my times of need. My brother-in-laws Sri Rathindranath Dutta as well as Sri Kaushik Aditya. My younger sister, Vartika Rai for always giving me moral support. My friend, Aditi Bhattacharya, for always being a true friend and for helping me with the type setting of this work.

Through the title of the study “The Contribution of Sita Devi and Shanta Devi in the Development of Women’s Education in the 21st century: A Historical Analysis” I have tried to focus and analyse a different view of women’s emancipation through education which has been untouched before. The fire of the two women writers, writing skills has inspired women down the ages and which has been a source of inspiration for women’s educational development in the 21st century.

Also I am thankful to all the persons who has stood behind me silently for the last three and a half years and I apologize sincerely if I have missed out any names.

My father Late Nrisingha Narayan Biswas and my mother Late Dipali Biswas, who has always been the fountain head of all the support certainly needs no formal acknowledgement.

Finally, I remain solely responsible for any errors and omissions in this thesis.
