ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost I honestly express my heartfelt thanks and gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Laxminarayan Lenka for his invaluable suggestions and guidance. I am thankful that he has been patiently holding the torch of philosophical research to lighten up my research path. There are times that I have had philosophical falls; but he always holds me up again. He understands every problem that I encountered during this research work. At times I also become so dry in my philosophical ideas, discourse and concepts; but my guide pours out enough on me that helps me reach today this stand and has made me achieved this special academic goal. May God be with him always, bless him to guide more scholars with much higher level and standard of supervision. I also cannot help myself away without expressing my sincerest thanks to all the faculty staffs of the department of philosophy, like, Prof. B.K. Agarwala, Prof. Vanlalnghak, Dr. R. Tongper, Dr. X.P. Mao, Dr. B. Pohlong, Dr. Prasenjit Biswas, Mr. U. Sharma for standing by my side and giving me guidance, encouragement and moral support. I express my thanks to all ministerial staffs for all help rendered to me untiringly.

I owe tons of thanks to my fellow research scholars, like Lalruatfela, Trishna P. Lekharu, Aswini Kumar Rout, D.G. Lyngdoh, Z.N. Ezung, Bonny Neihsial, Wabangnaro, Iahunlin Khyriem, and many more who share me their valuable ideas and spare their times for me during all those progress and pre-submission seminars. A special thanks to my friend Asongpou, who just completed his Ph. D. when I got myself registered for this academic endeavour, for giving me all moral support, sharing me his research experiences without holding back anything until completion of my work. A big love to him and his family.

Frankly, the idea of doing research was already doused in my two attempts of getting admission into. But after marriage, my lovely wife Zeli (Gospel Hrilzeli) rekindled the fire and motivated me to take another chance and then I got through. At times I got fed up of her for reminding me too often almost like her son, to sit and do my research works while herself busy in caring and nurturing our two children, Mawimawii and James. They are also old enough to snatch away new ideas that pop up into my mind by trying to sit on my lap while I sit with my laptop to handle it; but they taught me that human beings are filled with curiosity with linguistic struggles in trying to know and learn new things. So I deeply express my thanks to my wife and children for being with me all through – times that they have to spent without a father at home; only to keep me lone with my philosophical fighting.

I am happy to acknowledge the moral & prayer supports and all kinds of help that I receive from my Uncle Zara and Auntie Feli during my stay in Shillong, especially for this one great endeavour. My heartfelt thanks also to them. My parents and brothers and sisters are also springs of encouragement that keep flowing until this task ends. Love to you all!

Above all else, I extend my inexpressible thanks to the Almighty God, who has given me the knowledge, wisdom and sound health and pouring his countless blessings on me before, during and after this philosophical research work.
