ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present turbulent phase of political upheavels reflecting the institutional transition at the global level represents at the same an endeavour of mankind to develop and progress towards the most efficient and humane system of politics. In itself the institution of parliaments of our country is fully awakened to the new developments and requirements of changing patterns of social values and economic urges and is making genuine, sincere efforts for the welfare of Indian people.

In Britain the initial thrust for the reform movement came as such from the Universities and Communication media as from those directly concerned with the Parliamentary affairs. Our Universities have betrayed no inclination to be involved in the process of parliamentary reforms. In the field of social sciences Indian University tends to be sleepy hollow. And to come out of this hollow, to shun the indifference and content, in Kanpur University, this humble effort of study of Parliamentary system through the prism of VIIIth Parliament is truely beyond doubt. And for the successful completion of this research work I feel lucky enough having Dr. Ram Mohan Singh, Ex-Chairman, C.D.C., Kanpur University, Kanpur as my guide and supervisor, whose guidance and supervision at every step was exemplary. My heartiest acknowledgements are due to Sri Jagendra Swarup, MLC who by virtue of his rich legislative experience and humane treatment and being easily accessible made possible to complete this work.

I hereby sincerely acknowledge the help of staff of Libraries of Kanpur University, Kanpur; Punjab University, Chandigarh; Lal Bahadur Shastry IAS Academy, Mussoorie and especially the staff of Council of World Affairs, Sapru House, New Delhi and of Gyan Lok, Dehradun.

I hereby acknowledge the inspiration and moral encouragements of my husband, Shri Raghendra Swroop, whose political calibre and vigorous dynamism remained a great source of inspiration.

I will be failing in my duties, if I do not acknowledge the cooperative role of my children, Akanksha & Alakshendra, who had no grudge for remaining ignored during hectic activities towards completion of this work.
