Any work, no matter big or small, demands certain amount of endeavour. But writing a dissertation is, undoubtedly, one of the most significant academic challenges. Therefore, I am very grateful to Almighty that he has given me to chance as well as strength to accomplish this task. My first and foremost gratitude goes to his feet. Next, I express my heart-felt gratitude and respect to my supervisor Professor Sanjoy Saksena who extended his support and came forward to supervise me in the time of crisis – the demise of my previous supervisor Professor S B Shukla. It is unfortunate that Professor Shukla guided me for almost five years but when we were about to enjoy the ripened harvest of our long efforts, he has gone for heavenly abode. I wish his soul rest in peace. This dissertation would not have been possible without the support, patience, and guidance of my supervisors. I am deeply indebted to Professor Saksena for sparing his valuable time to discuss the various dimensions of the topic. I hope that his blessings and affection for me shall ever be my strength as it has been till now.

I am greatly obliged to the Dean of Arts and the Head of the department for permitting me to undergo this distinguished degree course. Along with them, I am indebted to the staff of our Department, and Staff of our Central Library for helping me in various ways. The SCILET, American College, Madurai also deserves my sincere gratitude for providing me study material for my research work. I appreciate my teachers, colleagues, friends for their encouragement and valuable suggestions. I am thankful from the bottom of my heart to each person who helped me in the completion of my work.

I am indebted to Mr V M Rasure, (Editor, Thematics Journal of Indian Literature), for publishing my research article; the same has been appended to the dissertation. I am also thankful to Dr Meena Rani Agrawal, (Organizing Secretary, National Seminar on Role of Women in Imparting Sanskar Based Value Education 2008, Allahabad), Prof A K Sharma (Co-Ordinator, 53rd All India English Teachers’ Conference 2008, Hardwar), Prof S K Sharma, (Co-Ordinator, International Seminar on The Novel in the Twenty-first Century: Text and Context 2009, Allahabad), Prof Prasant K Pandeya, (Organizing Secretary, International Seminar on Imaging India: Discourse of the Nation 2009, Varanasi), Prof G Rai (Convener, National Seminar on Global Literatures, National Identity, and the Subaltern: Emerging Trends in English Writing 2009, Gorakhpur), Dr Rehana Tariq (Principal, National Seminar on

I would fail in my gratitude if do not mention my friends Mrs Anupama Sharma, Ms Tanuja Singh, Mr Vinod Kumar Singh and Mr Umesh Chandra who extended their moral, emotional and material support during the course. I owe my deepest gratitude to my parents, brothers, friends, and relatives for their blessing, patience, and support. I offer my regards and blessings to all of those who supported me in any respect during the completion of the dissertation. Lastly, I again offer my prayers to the Almighty for giving me strength for achieving this target.
