Banking Industry plays an important role in an economy as a whole. It also help in the implementation of the financial policy of the country framed by the government of the country. The State Bank of India is one such banker in India which has successfully implemented various scheme introduced by the Reserve Bank of India for the people of specially rural and priority Sector of the country.

The State Bank of India has been financing to all types of Industries, business organization, public issues, foreign exchange requirement and has also been rendering the technical and advisory services. The State Bank of India provides its services through out the country by way of its network of branches as it is the biggest commercial Bank in the country. The State Bank of India was originally established in the year 1806 in the name of "Bank of Calcutta".

This inspired me to select the subject for the research being the functioning of the State Bank of India in the country and its set up, object, risk of finance, profitability of the bank etc.
At the outset I am highly indebted to my supervisor Dr. J.N. Gupta, who was a source of guidances to me throughout the period of my study. I could get all kind of information from the library of Stock Exchange. Thanks are also due to the persons who have instructed me in completing my study.

I am thankful to officers and staff of the State Bank of India who has provided voluminous information for this small work.

I am thankful to my professors and friends for insured support at each an every stage. My heart is welled up to recognised that without the motivation and support all the above it was rather difficult for me to complete this object in my hand. I would be failing in my duty if I do not feel obliged to my mother, tauji, taiji, brother and wife because without their morale and spiritual support it would have not possible to complete the work.
