ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Satisfaction and euphoria that accompany the successful completion of any work, would be incomplete without the mention of the people who made it possible, whose constant guidance and encouragement crown all the efforts with success.

I am highly indebted to my Research Supervisor, Prof Paramjit Kaur, Department of Laws, Panjab University, Chandigarh who has constantly guided throughout the work, sparing all time required and providing me with the necessary advice. Without her guidance and initiatives, this thesis could not have been completed. I could not have imagined having a better advisor and mentor for my Ph.D. study.

I would like to express the deepest appreciation to Prof. Shalini Marwaha, Chairperson, Department of Laws, Panjab University for her guidance, help and for her direction with my thesis. I am also grateful to all the faculty members of the Department of Laws, Panjab University, for their constant support and help.

No research is possible without the library, the centre of learning resource. My sincere thanks goes to the staff of my library of Department of Laws, Panjab University and Lloyd Law College, Greater Noida, who allowed me to have access to rich source of books and research facilities. Without their precious support it would not be possible to conduct the research.

Last but not least, I would like to thank my family: My parents, my late in laws, my sister and my brother for supporting me spiritually throughout this thesis writing and my life in general. Words cannot express how grateful I am to my mother and father for all of the sacrifices that you’ve made on my behalf. Your prayer for me what sustained me thus far. Thanks for being a pillar of strength and responsibility throughout the process of my research and writing this thesis.

Finally I express my very profound gratitude to my husband, Dr. Vikram Singh for understanding my passion for my career and providing me with unfailing support and continuous encouragement throughout my years of study. I wish to thank my husband, who has stood by me through all my travails, my absences, my fits of pique and impatience. This accomplishment would be possible without him. He has supported me in every possible way to see the completion of work. Along with him, I want to acknowledge my son Adheesh. He has never known his mother as anything but a student, it seems. This work could not have been accomplished without innocent cooperation, sacrifice and support of him, whose sweet smile encouraged me fighting my stress and complete the work successfully.

Above all, I owe it all to Lord Krishna, for granting me the wisdom, health and strength to undertake this research task, and enabling me to it complete it successfully.

All may not have been mentioned…. But none is forgotten!!!
