ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The difficult but immensely rewarding journey through this present work in the last half a decade has been one full of multifarious experiences, true to the favours of life. And as this work were at its completion, I wish to express my profound sense of gratitude to the people who have been intricate elements of it.

First and foremost, I am extremely grateful to my respected teacher, preceptor and supervisor, Dr. Ravi Shankar, Associate Professor, Department of Community Medicine, I.M.S, B.H.U, for his able guidance, consistent encouragement, untiring help and critical supervision rendered throughout this study. This feat was possible only because of the unconditional support provided by him. He has supported me not only by providing research assistance, but also academically and emotionally through the rough road to finish this thesis. Your perseverance, integrity and people-loving nature are just a few of your qualities that continue to inspire me. Thank you for being my mentor. I will always be thankful to you.

I would like to thank Prof. Sangeeta Kansal, Head of the Department of Community Medicine, I.M.S., B.H.U., for various fruitful discussions throughout the study. You have always inspired me and you are a role model for me. I look forward to walking in your footsteps.

I am also grateful to Prof. G.P. Singh, Department of Statistics, B.H.U., although he was not my official co-supervisor, but he has helped me at every step in this whole study, especially provided me with the statistical assistance I needed to complete my research work. Thank you for guiding me on the right path.

I would like to express my profound gratitude to Prof. C.P. Mishra, Department of Community Medicine, I.M.S., B.H.U., for his valuable suggestions at critical juncture of this study. You are an icon of hard work. Thank you does not sufficient but it is said with appreciation and respect.
I would also like to thank Prof. Archana Chakravarty, Head of the Department of Home Science, M.M.V., B.H.U., for her valuable teachings, advices and lively encouragement throughout my research work.

I am thankful to Dr. Alok Kumar, Associate Professor, Department of Statistics, who has always extended his support whenever needed. I thank him for his valuable contributions in the present study.

I take this opportunity to record my thanks to Prof. S.P. Singh, Prof. Ratan K. Srivastava, Prof. R.N. Mishra, Prof. T.B. Singh, Dr. Manushi Srivastava, Dr. Hari Shankar, Dr. Sunil Kumar & Dr. Arun Kumar Dubey, my respected teachers of the Department of Community Medicine.

I would like to thanks my colleagues Vineeta Singh, Shalini Yadav, Priya Keshari, Manish Kumar, Avdhesh Kumar and Shweta Sahoo for providing their constant support and many rounds of discussions throughout this journey which helped me a lot. I cannot forget to thanks my juniors Durgesh Shukla, Anu Yadav, Sudha Jaiswal, Divya Rani and Gunjan Singh for providing stimulating environment and helped me directly or indirectly in completing this work. I am deeply thankful to my best friend Neha Agarwal for always motivating me, encouraging me and providing moral and emotional support during all my highs and lows. I would also like to extend huge and warm thanks to my roommate Shruti for her valuable help and suggestions throughout the research work. No matter what, she was always around to help on anything or everything beyond this research as well.

I cannot forget the help of the non-teaching staff of my department for their timely assistance whenever required.

My special acknowledgements go to all those people who made possible the difficult task of ‘Blood collection’ for my experiments. My warm appreciation is due to Dr. S.P. Mishra, Associate Professor, Head of the department of Biochemistry for providing all the necessary facilities and help regarding blood collection and analysis in G.L.P. lab, B.H.U. I feel indebted to lab assistants Neetu Gupta, Naresh Mishra and Abhishek Kumar G.L.P. lab B.H.U. for collection of blood samples and analysis.
I thank my Parents from the bottom of my heart for making me able to be called a researcher. This was my parent’s dream to put Dr. in front of my name. Thanks Mummy and Papa for being the driving force behind me, instilling courage and determination throughout my life. I will always be indebted to God for giving me such wonderful parents. I salute you both for the selfless love, care, pain and sacrifice you did to shape my life. I would like to thanks my Chacha for his unconditional love and support throughout my life.

I am more than thankful to a very special person, my husband, Mr. Ekshawaku Singh, for his unfailing love, untiring help, constant support, understanding and encouragement during this whole journey. Whenever I thought it is impossible to continue, you were always around and helped me to keep things in perspective. You have always heard me and my research discussions and helped me with your words of wisdom. Thanks dear for always being so understanding and co-operative all the time. I feel blessed to be your wife. Thanks a lot.

I express my deepest owe to my sister, Swati Singh, for her extraordinary love, grace and providing constant encouragement and strength. You are my ideal in every possible way. I am lucky to have a sister like you. I also thank my brother, Shubham Singh, although he is younger than me in years, but he is big brother at heart. Thanks bhai for always being so caring and loving and helping me in every possible way.

I am really grateful to my Jij, Mr. Sachchidanand Singh, for always motivating me and instilling positivity in me. You have encouraged me throughout this whole Ph.D. journey. A special thanks to my bundle of joy and star of eyes, my nephew Shaurya, for bringing happiness in my life and making this journey more memorable.

My heartfelt regard goes to my all in-laws for their love and moral support. I thank the Almighty for giving me the strength and patience to work through all these years.
