ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all I would like to thank God not only for giving me strength to complete my study, but also for having put on my way many special people whose help, encouragement and friendship, I will never forget.

I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my research guide and supervisor Prof. Dr. G. Muraleedhara Kurup, the former Director of School of Biosciences, Mahatma Gandhi University, for his kind support and encouragement throughout this study. From our first meeting itself, my guide talked about current issues of environmental pollution due to dyes generated from coir industries and advised me to take a topic related to that. Our discussions ended with the selection of this particular topic and I was very happy to do work since the selected area is a promising social issue which warrants immediate attention. The work is aimed at finding of a solution for this burning problem of the state of Kerala. I have been indebted in the preparation of this thesis to my supervisor whose patience and kindness, as well as his academic experience, has been invaluable to me.

The Staff of St. Berchmans College, Changanacherry helped me a lot and molded me for extending my career as a researcher. I remember all in the Department of Zoology who helped me to reach my goal with their constant support.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. J. G. Ray, the Director, School of Biosciences, Mahatma Gandhi University for his consistent support to the completion of this work and to Dr. Jyothis Mathew, former Director, for providing space in his lab for maintaining the fish used in the study.

I express my whole hearted appreciation and gratitude to all the teaching and non-teaching staffs of School of Biosciences who helped me in one way or other in the completion of my work.
I cannot belittle the patience and timely support and services provided by numerous intelligent personalities like Dr. Arunan Chandravarkar (School of Chemical sciences, Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam) for FTIR and SEM-EDX analysis, Dr. C.T. Aravindakumar, Mr. Sunil and Mr. Manoj (School of Environmental Sciences, Mahatma Gandhi University) for HPLC analysis, Dr. Sandya (Scientific Assistant, IISc, Bangalore) for LC-MS analysis and Dr. Joseph Mathew, Pathologist, MDC labs, Kottayam for histopathological studies. It is the reflection of their technical knowhow, incomparable efficiency and professional knowledge which helped me to complete this work.

I would acknowledge Mr. Binoy A.M, Mr. Jasim B and my brother-in-law, Joice Toms for their valuable support at crucial times. When I was in short of time their assistance helped me a lot in completion of this work.

I gratefully thank Mr. Bose, Mrs. Reji, Mr. Sathyan, Mr. Philip and Mrs. Bindhu for their kind support. I would like to remember my students especially Mr. Abilash, Ms.Elizabeth, Ms.Anju, Ms.Shanti and Ms.Tijith for their timely inspiring support.

The power of knowledge through words I imbibed was from various libraries like Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam; Indian institute of Science, Bangalore and Central Marine Fisheries Research Institute, Cochin.

I am extending my sincere thanks and gratitude to my lab mates Mr. Rajesh Bhasker, Dr. Shonima Govindan, Dr. Pratheesh P.T. and Dr. Jiji Thomas for providing invaluable research assistance, when I was in need. Among us the love and affection grew beyond the regular work and their constant support helped me a lot in completing this work.

I would particularly thank my friends especially Dr. Suja Philip, Dr. Prathibha, Dr. Aju K. Ashok, Dr. Aparna Balakrishnan, Ms. Savitha Kolery, Mrs.Anjali, Mrs. Anu Kuruvila, Dr. Athul Sandeep, Mrs. Jeni, Mrs. Roshmi, Ms. Soumya, Mr. Mohind, Mr. Santhosh, Mr. Sougand and Mr. Abhilash for their contagious enthusiasm and unfailing optimism, meticulous attention and patient good humors. I am thankful to all the research scholars of School of Biosciences, Mahatma Gandhi University.

Sincere words of gratitude to Mr. Bibin and Mr. Anish, staff of V4U computers, Opp. M.G. University, for printing and binding work of the thesis.

I bow my head in front of my parents and teachers from KG to MSc to thank for their consideration towards me to be in a position like this. Special thanks to my relatives for their timely financial help and support without that I cannot fulfill my work. I would like to thank my wife and little kid for being supportive to my deeds in the past years. Here I place on record with ecstasy my gratitude and thanks to all those faces I came across in this journey.
