REFERENCES

59. Murray (1991) also found that perceived risk increases information search, particularly for services as compared to products. This is because services tend to be harder to evaluate and collecting information on them is instrumental in reducing risk.

78. The Economic Times (2005), ‘Increased Borrowing and Change in People’s Profile Power Demand, Booming India marketers’ Delight.

