CONTENTS

Acknowledgement
Abstract
List of Tables
List of Graphs

CHAPTER-I: INTRODUCTION
1-85

I.1 News
I.2 Newspaper
I.3 Management of Newspaper
I.4 Functions of Newspaper
I.5 Newspaper Printing Process
  I.5.1 Editorial Department
  I.5.2 Advertisement Department
  I.5.3 Circulation Department
    I.5.3.1 Local Circulation
    I.5.3.2 Regional Circulation
I.6 Economics of Newspaper
I.7 Income Sources of Newspaper
I.8 Relevancy and Importance of circulation in Newspaper
I.9 Use and Importance of Circulation
I.10 Audit Bureau of Circulation
I.11 Role and Function of News in Circulation Management of Newspaper
I.12 The Attractive Marketing Themes of Newspaper
I.13 Newspaper- Mission-Professionalism-Business
I.14 A Brief Introduction of Newspapers (Related to Research)
  I.14.1 Dainik Bhaskar-An introduction
  I.14.2 Dainik Jagran-An introduction
  I.14.3 Punjab Kesari-An introduction
I.14.4 Amar Ujala—An introduction
I.14.5 Dainik Tribune—An introduction
I.14.6 Hari Bhoomi—An introduction

I.15 Factors affecting the circulation of newspaper

I.15.1 Mass literacy
I.15.2 Consciousness
I.15.3 Values and theory
I.15.4 Amusement
I.15.5 Usefulness
I.15.6 Competitiveness
I.15.7 Correspondents and regional news
I.15.8 Effective printing and common, easy language style
I.15.9 Reliability of news, factuality and wide spread
I.15.10 To attract readers by advertisements
I.15.11 Publication of features
I.15.12 To procure circulation in time at sale counters
I.15.13 Newspaper with more pages
I.15.14 The Sunday supplement and glossy paper
I.15.15 Some important supplements on important occasions
I.15.16 Layout of the newspaper
I.15.17 The commission paid to agents and hawkers by the newspapers

I.16 Factors affecting the circulation of newspaper in research (Marketing point Of view)

I.16.1 Survey
I.16.2 Local Pullout
I.16.3 Schemes and Gift Proposals
I.16.4 Price
I.16.5 Place of Publication
I.16.6 Magazines and Feature Pages
I.17 Objectives of the Study
I.18 Hypothesis of the Study
I.19 Benefits of the Study
I.20 Limitations of the Study

CHAPTER II: REVIEW OF LITERATURE
86-102

CHAPTER III: RESEARCH METHODOLOGY
103-136

III.1 Research
III.2 Media Research
III.3 Research Methodology and Process
III.4 Origin of the Study
III.5 The Statement of the Problem
III.6 Selecting the Research Method
    III.6.1 Observation Method
    III.6.2 Statistical Method
    III.6.3 Statistical Process
III.7 Data
    III.7.1 Primary Data
    III.7.2 Secondary Data
III.8 Presentation of Data
    III.8.1 Graphical Presentation of Data
III.9 Universe of the Study
III.10 Selection of Newspaper
    III.10.1 Why the Selection of Hindi Newspapers
III.11 Time Period of the Study

CHAPTER IV: ANALYSIS AND EXPLANATION
137-209

IV.1 Preface

Part-I Analysis And Explanation
IV.1. Analysis of newspapers circulation in Haryana
   IV.1.1. Dainik Bhaskar Circulation analysis
   IV.1.2. Dainik Jagran Circulation analysis
   IV.1.3. Punjab Kesari Circulation analysis
   IV.1.4. Dainik Tribune Circulation analysis
   IV.1.5. Hari Bhoomi Circulation analysis
   IV.1.6. Amar Ujala Circulation analysis

IV.2. Analysis of six newspapers circulation under the period of research for five years

IV.3. Comparative analysis of circulation of six newspapers in Haryana (2004 to 2008)
   IV.3.1 Circulation analysis year-2004
   IV.3.2 Circulation analysis year-2005
   IV.3.3 Circulation analysis year-2006
   IV.3.4 Circulation analysis year-2007
   IV.3.5 Circulation analysis year-2008

IV.4. Comparative analysis of average growth rate of newspaper circulation

Part-II Analysis and Explanation

IV.5. Analysis of circulation with the Factors Affecting the Circulation of Newspapers in Haryana i.e.
   IV.5.1. Survey
   IV.5.2. Schemes and gift proposals
   IV.5.3. Local Pullouts
   IV.5.4. Price
   IV.5.5. Place of Publication
   IV.5.6. Magazines and Feature Pages

IV.6 Analysis with media expert’s views

CHAPTER-V: CONCLUSION
210-222

Suggestions

BIBLIOGRAPHY
223-235