This work is an attempt to study the life of the conflict induced displaced persons in the Kokrajhar district of the newly created Bodoland Territorial Council under the amended Sixth Schedule of the Indian constitution. The present study is confined to the internally displaced persons living in the state sponsored temporary relief camps during the period 1996-2006. The management of these camps by the state government of Assam with the cooperation of the central government and the assistance of a few non-governmental organizations in their effort was undertaken for analysis.

In the preparation of this thesis, I sincerely acknowledge my esteemed guide and supervisor Dr. A. Saikia, Reader, Department of Geography, Gauhati University for his valuable support and constant encouragement, provocation for thinking and rethinking and his very sincere guidance from the beginning till the end of this task. It is mainly because of him that I could complete my work within the stipulated time. Besides he had given me full autonomy in conducting my research.

I am also grateful to Mr. Kumud Ranjan Basumatary, Lecturer, Department of History, Gossaigaon College for his valuable suggestions and guidance on the study from time to time. I also thank the students and the NSS volunteers of my college for extending their help in conducting field survey in the relief camps. Their participation in the survey immensely helped me in interacting with the inmates of the camps.

I am also thankful to the Principal and other staff members of my college for their suggestions and encouragement during the study. My thank also goes to Mr. Medini Thalleder for helping me in computer works. I also express my gratitude to my parents and friends for their kind encouragement.
