ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The developing countries are facing many socio-economic problems due to population explosion. The problem of over population has somewhat arrested and slowed down their development. That's why the need to control the population has been felt and people have started thinking in this direction. Population education is perhaps an innovative discipline which can give them the proper guidance in this respect.

India being a country of the Third World is increasingly facing the challenge of over-population. Population education, therefore, has become an important and interesting field of study for suggesting ways and means for facing such challenges. Taking into consideration the practical importance of population education, the researcher has initiated research in this novel field of great social significance.

The researcher is highly grateful to his Supervisor Dr. S.P. Ahluwalia, Professor, Head and Dean, Faculty of Education, Doctor Harisingh Gour Vishwavidyalaya, Sagar (M.P.) who despite his tiring academic preoccupations has provided his valuable time for guidance. It is his inspiration which motivated the investigator to work in this potential research area. The research work could take this final shape only because of his constant encouragement and timely advice.

The researcher is also thankful to Mrs. S. Ahluwalia, who has prompted him at regular intervals to complete the task within the prescribed time.

It gives me great pleasure to express my gratitude and thanks to all the Principals, teachers and students of higher secondary schools of Bundelkhand and Bastar regions of Madhya Pradesh for their valuable cooperation and help, without which this great study was not possible.

The researcher is grateful to I.C.S.S.R., New Delhi for providing him Research Assistance Grant for data processing on computer.

The researcher is thankful to Council for Social Development, New Delhi to provide facilities for data processing on the computer.
Dr. V.B. Singh, Joint Director and Dr. B.S. Nagi, Project Director and the staff deserves special thanks for their kind, sympathetic and helpful cooperation in data processing, data analysis and data-interpretation.
