ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Not being a man of letters, undertaking a research study was always going to be an uphill battle for me, a career seafarer. This battle is finally over but would not have been possible without the support, assistance, encouragement and guidance of a large number of friends and colleagues who aided and righted me at more or less every step of the way. I am truly grateful and deeply indebted to all of them for their time, patience and wisdom in ensuring that this project was completed. Although there are a large number of people to whom I owe many a thanks, I would like to place on record my deep appreciation specifically to the following persons:

My parents, Mrs. Meera and Dr. Biswanath Bhattacharya, who maintained their faith and belief in my academic pursuits, albeit achieved very late in life. They could never reconcile to my leaving an apparently promising education to join the sea; I hope this will provide some closure!

My family, Mousumy, Atreyi and Aditya, to whom I could not devote time these past few years, special thanks for bearing and supporting me in the pursuit of this Quixotic dream

My guide Dr. K.V. Mohana Rao, for his endless patience and calm demeanour, in dealing with me, guiding me and going through endless chapters

My external Guide, Dr. Irfan A Rizvi, for introducing me to the construct of ‘engagement’, clarifying my thoughts, giving me direction, and imparting professionalism to my amateurish writing

Dr. Roma Mitra Debnath (on whom I foisted myself) for taking me under your wing and guiding me through the complex statistical analysis. Without your help, this project would not have been done.

Dr. Sisse Gron, for helping me sort my thoughts, bring objectivity, eliminate bias from my work, and process the numerous chapters I sent to you

Capt. Mittal and Capt. Sarin of ARI, New Delhi, your assistance in the group administration of the questionnaire was invaluable. You simplified one of the most difficult parts of the project through your wholehearted cooperation.

The five members of the expert panel, for sharing their time, knowledge and experience with me.

The faculty at UPES, especially Dr. S.P.S. Narang, Dr. Neeraj Anand, Dr. Atul Razdan, Dr. K.K. Pandey, Dr. Tarun Dhingra, who greatly aided me from the day I started my project. I am thankful for your time and patience.

Prof. Umashankar Venkatesh and Prof. A.N. Bhattacharya for taking time out from your busy schedules to go through my writing and correcting me.
