ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Achieving doctorate is only a milestone in my life’s journey. It definitely is not an end of my educational journey but a new beginning which will test my efficiency in handling a new challenge every day. I thank God for giving me the correct vision and the necessary strength to take my research work to completion. As I look back at the journey so far I realize that there are a number of people in this journey without whom this PhD work would have been half done or may have not begun at all. I therefore use this opportunity to express my sense of gratitude towards all of them and thank everyone from the bottom of my heart.

My sincere thanks to the Vice Chancellor, Shobhit University Meerut for giving me an opportunity to do PhD from this University. It gives me pleasure in extending my heartfelt thanks to Dr. R G Singhal my internal supervisor for his caring attitude, support and timely guidance during the thesis work.

Words would fall short while thanking my external supervisor Dr. Kiran S Bhise. Her valuable suggestions, brilliant ideas made me take correct decisions. I thank you madam for always being there as a guiding light whenever I was surrounded with darkness.

It gives me immense pleasure to thank the members of SRDC, Shobhit University Dr. Ranjit Singh and Dr. Shailendra Saraf for their valuable suggestions during every presentation. Their criticism and advice helped me to improve at every step in research work.

I also take this opportunity to thank the management and faculty of Shobhit University for their kind cooperation. I also thank the management of MCE Society’s Allana College of Pharmacy for allowing me to carry out my research work in the laboratories of the college, the librarian for free access to all the books and the non-teaching staff for their help during the research work.

Nothing would have been possible without my family’s encouragement and unconditional support. I am grateful towards my better half Sachin for being a very important part of this entire journey. My son Ved, my parents, in laws, Prajakta and Anuja deserve a special mention; without their cooperation this dream would not have been fulfilled. My in-laws have been a major support system through all these years of PhD work. I am thankful to my mother in law for her ever caring attitude, suggestions and advice which I needed very much throughout this work. I also take this opportunity to thank all my near and dear ones, my relatives and family members who have supported me throughout the work.

I would like to thank Rashmi who has been there with me since the beginning of this journey. It would have been a lonely journey without her. Her warm company, easily adjusting nature and positive attitude kept me going in everything related to PhD right from studying for course work till the very end of submission.

A special thanks to all my colleagues in Allana College of Pharmacy for their support. I also take this opportunity to express my thanks towards all those who directly or indirectly helped me in this journey.

--- Maushumi Karkhanis.