Acknowledgements

While this thesis presents the scientific work carried out in the last five years as a Ph. D. student, it does not reflect the guidance, encouragement, support and love of many who have supported my journey and deserve more than an acknowledgement.

This research work was possible mainly because of the opportunity presented to me by Shailesh Sir and Rathod Sir (my PG guide) in October 2004 for continuing research at LMCP.

I would like to specially acknowledge my guide Dr. Shailesh A. Shah for whom I have utmost respect and appreciation. His dedication, enthusiasm, and passion for research motivated me to pursue a Ph.D. under his guidance. The support and encouragement he has given me during my journey for Ph.D. will be remembered forever. The years that I have spent being his student will always be cherished.

I would like to acknowledge Mr. I. S. Rathod for his training, guidance, support and encouragement from PG to Ph. D. His philosophy and teaching style are unique, and will continue to impact me even after I doctorate.

I would like to be very thankful to Dr. B. N. Suhagia for his timely help, moral support and useful guidance which helped me to achieve my goal. I would also like to thank Dr. M. C. Gohel, Principal, L.M. College of Pharmacy, Ahmedabad, for extending all the facilities during the present study and valuable suggestions. I would be obliged to Dr. M. T. Chhabaria, Dr. Gaurang B. Shah, Dr. Saurabh S. Pandya and Dr. Girish K. Jani for their generous help in this journey.

This journey would have been difficult without company of my friends – Surati, Pathik, Sameer P., Sameer S.; my colleagues – Mitesh Jani, Sanjeev
Acharya and Sameer Shah. Being in your company has made my journey an enjoyable experience. My friends – Sandip, Laxman, Vishal, Mac and Manish – thank you so much for your support and help from the days of B. Pharm.

Most importantly, I would like to thank my parents, Vanitaben and Kunvarji, brother Hitesh, sister-in-law Bhavna and niece Shraddha - Vishwa for being my inspiration, my constant support and my motivation.

My wife, Beena, her support and advice proved to be immeasurable. She has motivated me to keep moving through difficult times. Her love and patience has been a tremendous source of strength for me during these years.

Thank you again to all.
