AIM AND OBJECTIVES

Aim of the study

To study the association of high risk factors and permanent hearing impairment in infants.

Objectives of the study

1. To find the strength and significance of association of individual hereditary risk factors with permanent hearing impairment.

2. To find the strength and significance of association of combined hereditary risk factor with permanent hearing impairment.

3. To find the strength and significance of association of individual acquired risk factors with permanent hearing impairment.

4. To find the strength and significance of association of combined acquired risk factors with permanent hearing impairment.