Retrospection is a magical activity. Everytime I exercise it, I find myself back in the memory lane when a number of people lend me hand hold support and helped me in accomplishing this task.

My both supervisors Prof. Rakesh K. Mudgal and Prof. Ajay K. Garg have lend me hand hold support and unwavering motivation to accomplish this task.

Prof. Rakesh K. Mudgal is one prominent person due to whom I could accomplish this task. He, as a Vice Chancellor of the University makes it a point to mentor every individual in his/ her academic pursuits. I cannot thank him enough when I recall all those times when I approached him with my doubts while carrying out this research. Despite his excessively busy schedule, he managed to lend me time. He guided the course of this research throughout, till submission of pre- thesis, its presentation and finally till the completion of thesis. During the most difficult times while writing this thesis, he was the one who kept me going. His par excellence mental faculties were the key to the meticulous details worked out in this research. He is a natural ‘academic leader’. His deep involvement in the research endeavor of the university helps out the research scholars to move on. He ensures that the research of Teerthanker Mahaveer University carves out a niche for itself in terms of quality. He helped me out in working out minutest of the details of this research.

Prof. Ajay K. Garg left no stone unturned in motivating me during the moments when I almost gave up. During long telephonic sessions and over internet, he inspired me to accomplish this mammoth task by clarifying my innumerable doubts for which I am indebted. He, being an authority on the area helped me out at junctures when I needed his support the most. His own research being on handicraft sector, he could actually understand the intricacies involved and accordingly guided my way. He introduced me to EPCH which was instrumental in providing valuable information for this research work. Although staying far away in Canada with almost 10 hours difference in time zone, he ensured to strike a balance to be with me over internet whenever I needed to discuss the intricacies with him. He was instrumental in providing me the appropriate support and guidance for which I am grateful.
The former Vice Chancellor of Teerthanker Mahaveer University, Prof. R.K. Mittal showed me the path to be followed for carrying out the research. He helped me out in selecting the appropriate topic and inspired me for initiating research. He is an academician and human par excellence.

Prof. K.K. Pande, Dean Academics of the University motivated and inspired me throughout this phase and his motivation induced the completion of this task.

I am grateful to Dr. J.B. Jain, Controller of Examination and Mr. Jaiprakash Bansal, Dy. Registrar of the University who always ensure that the policy guidelines are religiously and impartially followed thus ensuring quality.

I am thankful to Prof. Vipin Jain, Chairperson, College Research Committee and his team for helping me out in completing procedural formalities.

The officials of Export Promotion Council for Handicrafts deserve special acknowledgement for helping me out whenever I asked for. They provided me lot of secondary data in the form of EPCH journals, handbooks, directories and manuals. I had discussions with them from time to time which gave me valuable insights. Mr. Rawat and Mr. Alok helped me out in short listing the handicraft units in the areas of study and helped me getting the questionnaires filled and seek responses from the distant areas of study.

There are several manufacturers of metal ware with whom I interacted personally, Mr. Shafaat Ahmad Khan (CEO, Hamraz International and President, Moradabad Handicraft Exporters Association), Ms. Sapna Saran (Gyaneshwar Saran, Sudeshwar Saran and Company), Mr. Ajay Gupta (MD, CL Gupta IMT Exports), and Mr. IjlalShamsi (MD, Paramount Home Collections). Despite being their busy schedule they spared me time and sorted out my queries related to the study.

Finally I’ll say that any research is an outcome of a number of brains, who render valuable suggestions, it is the end result of a number of good intentions of the people who surround you, and a number of prayers which are said silently for your success. I am grateful to all such people who are the harbingers of positive energy.
