ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is beyond doubt that without the help of 'Allah', the Almighty, this work would not have been possible. Thus, all thanks and praise be to Him.

I am extremely indebted to my supervisor Professor Iffat Ara who, in spite of her busy schedule, devoted a lot of time in reading the various drafts of this work. I really owe profound gratitude to her for her guidance, full support and cooperation, and persistent encouragement. I am indeed grateful to her for all that she has done for me.

Similarly, I owe special thanks to Professor C.N. Srinivasan, my senior colleague in the Department of English, Faculty of Education, Zabid, Yemen, for suggesting this topic for research and for his support and encouragement throughout.

Sincere thanks are also due to Professor Qasim Mohammed Berih, the Rector of Hodeidah University; to Mr. Tawfeeq Mohd. Qasim, the General Manager of the University; and to Dr. Hamood M. Qadaha Dean of the Faculty of Education, Zabid, Yemen, for their inspiration and for providing me with this opportunity to proceed on to higher studies.

I would like to express my gratefulness to my unrivalled friend Mrs. Kimberlee Revis, the editor-in-chief of the Star Newspaper, Valdez, Alaska, USA, for her generous support and cooperation and persistent encouragement.
Special thanks go to Mr. Pervez, Incharge of the Seminar Library and Staff Members of the Department of English, AMU, Aligarh, for their help and cooperation.

My colleagues, friends and well-wishers gave me help and encouragement, for which I am thankful to them. I owe special thanks to Mr. Naseem Ahmad Khan for his great efforts and hard work in bringing this work into light.

I wish to place on record my deep sense of gratitude to my mother and all family members in Yemen who have always been a source of inspiration to me. I am grateful to them for their affection, assistance and moral support.

I am especially grateful to my wife and children, Dhia'a, Suzan and Fatima, whose constant inspiration and support revived my spirits. I am indeed indebted to my wife who patiently and willingly endured the hardship of living away from home and the loss of her dear sister.

Finally, while my debts, both general and specific, are many in a venture of this sort, I accept the sole responsibility for errors of fact and interpretation, inconsistencies, and omissions that might have inadvertently crept into this work.
