Acknowledgements

First and foremost, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Dr. T. Ganesh for extending his even support, particularly during two of the lowest periods of my research career. If not for him, I probably wouldn’t have been able to ever complete my thesis. His patience, pleasant and encouraging demeanour in the office, his tenacious commitment to his students and researchers and his tea-loving, binoc holding, lanky, cheerful, Hindi-speaking field avatars of the northeast will always keep the PhD memories warm and vivid. I am equally grateful to my doctoral advisory committee members - Dr. Siddhartha Krishnan, Dr. Seema Purushothaman and Dr. Bibhab Kumar Talukdar for their immense contribution while framing and designing the thesis and for their critical inputs, unending encouragement and unconditional support throughout the research.

I am extremely grateful to Dr. Adiga, Registrar, Manipal University, for his unconditional support, co-operation and facilitating extensions and other countless requests and applications.

I thank the The Rufford Small Grants Foundation (UK), Critical Ecosystem Partnership Fund (Eastern Himalayas) and National Geographic Society for support during various aspects of the research. I also thank the Council of Scientific & Industrial Research (CSIR), India for supporting my fellowship during the latter part of the PhD. and the Netherlands Fellowship Program, Wageningen University, Wageningen and CIFOR, Bogor, Indonesia for funding me to attend a short course on landscape Governance in September, 2014.

Special thanks to Prashanth, Saleem, Abhisheka, Ganesh, Somen, Marvellous and Seena for helping out during the field work with their skills, support, love, companionship, encouragement and sparking it up with those occasional fights. Your contribution to the thesis can never be measured in words and I will remain for ever indebted for your selfless help and unending support. I am extremely grateful to Muneeswaran and Somendro for their critical help and inputs in the RS based LULC change classification, a key aspect of one of my chapters. Special thanks are also due to Jaya and Seena for creating study area and other figures for the thesis.

At the Department of Environment and Forests, Meghalaya, I thank Mr. V.K. Nautiyal, PCCF, and Mr. A. Singh, Chief Wildlife Warden, for providing the necessary permissions to carry out the work. I am grateful to the Divisional Forest Officers Mr. Pawan Agrahari, for sharing the Management and Working Plan of Narpuh and Saipung Reserve forests, for throwing useful insights on the project and for the long discussions which greatly helped me to navigate through various complicated alleys of the forest laws. And also to the wildlife enthusiast who is deeply committed to conservation, Kong Lato, Mr. Rajaram Singh and Mr. James Pohsngap. ACFs Mr. Nainamalai and Ranger Mr. Sailo Sutunga, for their unending help and support in arranging logistics and streamlining the field work tasks. The Beat Officers of Sonapur, Ratacherra and Barsora Beats, Umkiang Range, Narpuh Reserve Forest, Block 2, Forest Gaurds: Lam, Syrti Hastings, Imran Hussain. Boatman: Pynshnaign Lamare, Manju Sarmah, Phim Suchiang, all from the Department of Environment and Forests, Meghalaya, for effectively assisting during all stages of field work and their unending love, support and encouragement. I would like to thank my interpreters cum field assistants Late Mr. A. Shylla, Mr. Bah Roy, and Mr. Somlalmoia Darnei who were my additional pairs of ear and eyes during the study.

My sincere gratitude to Dr. Kamal Bawa, whose encouragement has been critical at all junctures. I also sincerely thank Dr. Balachander Ganesan, Director, ATREE, for his ceaseless support and encouragement and Dr. Gladwin Joseph, whose never-ending support and warm-demeanour was crucial throughout the program. I’m grateful to the academy at ATREE, the first academy co-ordinator-Robert for his moral support and encouraging presence during those nascent days of the ‘academy’. Special thanks to Dr. Aravind Madhyastha and Dr. Nitin Rai for facilitating a smooth journey with the Manipal University.

In Meghalaya, I had the best mentor that one could ask for, Dr. B.K. Tiwari. His contribution to this thesis and to the overall growth as a researcher has been immense. His support and kindness have been unconditional and has always been there whenever I needed him. Thank you Sir. Discussions with Dr. Ghazala Shahabuddin and her valuable insights has been extremely helpful in tightening up many aspects of the thesis. Her pioneering papers and books covering many aspects of conservation in the human-forest interface has been inspirational and has been important in shaping my outlook on the subject. Patricia Mukhim’s remarkable writings have inspired me to know and engage with different socio-cultural and political issues of Meghalaya. Her presence and guidance has been a great asset. Thank you so much Kong Pat, for everything.

I would like to extend my gratitude to Madhavi, the ever helpful and pleasant Asst. Co-ordinator at the Academy for always being there. Without her reassuring presence, help, encouragement, support and easy facilitation with the Manipal authorities, the research wouldn’t have been such a smooth affair.

Thanks are due to Drs. Ganesan, Sasidharan, Thomas, Lele, Khaling and Badiger for making the work place a thriving intellectual space. Special thanks and gratitude to Dr. Priyan and Dr. Soubadra, whose care and warmth never allowed me to miss my folks in Bangalore. The thesis has benefitted immensely from many formal and informal discussions, mocks and meetings with them. And I learnt a lot from them in general. In short it is their presence that makes ATREE a cool place.

Special thanks to Obaiah, whose efficiency in the library and his ever-willingness to loan and find books that could hide in plain sight, were invaluable assets during all stages of the research, particularly in the writing stages.

I am thankful to ATREE colleagues, in particular Saji for his help with the computer/printer related issues and Sindhu, Ashoka, Vartika and Rohini for administering my research grants and CSIR fellowship. Raghu and Indrani for always being there no matter what. No amount of thanks and gratitude can measure up to the giant presence of the unmatched logistical gurus, Lakshmikant and Ramesh, who were always there with their help, solutions and ready repartee.

My office mates Prashanth, Vikram, Abhisheka, Chetan, the ACCC dons Mathivanan, and Sarvanan, ex-Singampatty don Kottaimuthu, ex-room-mates Tenzing, Paramesh, ex-hostel mates Reddy, Nivedita, Niranjan, Niraj, Maya, Andy, Aniruddh, Vidya, Venkat, Sandy, Madhura and Sam, a deeply knowledgeable friend, who unfortunately is no longer a colleague and Venkat, a great colleague and a friend. Both cool intellectual guys to hang out with.

Special thanks to buddies Ameya, Munees, Prassanna, Allwin and Shiv, who by the charm and lure of their awesome company, greatly contributed to the delay in thesis. But without whose distractions and pleasant company, I wouldn’t have been able to cope up with the pressure either.

And my life-mates Allwin, Rajeeb, and Rakesh. Thank you for always believing in me and never failing to pep me up. The thesis is full of you, all you great guys.

In Meghalaya I had an immensely warm and gregarious group of scholars cum friends in Bah Mohrmen, Arwat, Somendro, Bhogtoram, Rohit, the occasional Gogo and the newly anointed DR., Mama. They have helped a lot in shaping my understanding of the place, their people and their complexities. Occasionally, they have also shared their beds, biscuits and bread too. Thank you so much all.

I wish to thank the lively and charming residents of Malidor, Dona, Umkiang, Apha, Sonapur, Barsora, Khaddum, Brichinhot, Lumshnong, Saipung, who treated and pampered me as one of their own. Kong Sting for her tea, kwai, love, care and laughter, all of which are the best of this world. Tackmon Gympad and Mini Hotel for supplying hot and special chicken stew that always kept me healthy and lively during the field work and made sure I gained weight after each field season. Last but not the least all the friends in Shillong, Jowai, Sonapyrdi, Umkiang, Myrli and Ratakhera who has provided their unstinted and unconditional support and love which is difficult to contain in words. Without their help and utmost co-operation this work wouldn’t have been possible.

My sincere and special thanks to Dr. Satish Kalanje, Dr. Bhaskarjyoti Gogoi and my oldest yoga-guru, Mr. Naagesh without whom I probably would still been a bed-ridden cripple, never even dreaming to walk, let alone recover and finishing my field work. I also Dr. N. Nagaratnha of S Vyasa Vivekananda Yoga Kendra, Jigani, Karnataka, whose one week residential course worked like a miracle and allowed and enabled me to go back and finish my 2 years of field work, and ultimately this thesis. I thank Late Don Vito Corleone and Michael Corleone for their infinitesimal wisdom about pragmatic matters of life, which a full time career in research tends to diminish. I also thank Anne Murray, Van Morrison and Phil Collins for their music which always understood me and provided the exact therapy I required.

All my folks Dad, mom, Bini, Pinky, Mamon, Seena, amma, achan, Rinu, Abhinash, lost and never found Puchkun and late Mr. Scooby, thanks for your unconditional love, support, encouragement and for pushing me to keep believing in myself and for keeping me cheerful and happy all through. The many sacrifices and pain they endured, particularly mom and dad throughout and subsequently Bini and Seena, has been the foundation of this thesis. Their contributions to the thesis is irreplaceable. Amma’s prayers, and achan’s blessings has kept me strong and going. And the pain that amma has gone through to keep my stash of ‘kwai’ from going empty during the thesis-writing is something that I will never allow myself to forget.

Last but not the least, my countless gratitude to Seena, whose endless support, care and tenacious belief in me played a big part in the culmination of this effort, which at times looked like ‘vacuum’ with neither a beginning nor an end. It’s a miracle that she read through the drafts multiple times and still managed to stay sane. If not for her, I wouldn’t have been the same person, writing this today. She is the reason I exist as I do in this world and she owns a big part of me, just as she does of this thesis, which, is dedicated to her.
