ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In start of every new session of education, we easily can see the feared and innocent faces of new entrants and oftenly read happenings of ragging in newspapers. As an Assistant Professor of College, I had been curious about raggers-nonraggers personalities.

I can not forget at this juncture that my mother Late Smt Rama Sharma always inspired and encouraged me for this research.

The research work in this subject was not so easy but the invaluable guidance and promotion rendered by Dr. R. D. Helode, Professor and Head, School of Studies in Psychology, Pt. Ravishankar Shukla University, Raipur (M.P.) made the research in my reach. For uncomparable guidance and helps in solving the difficult times I am deeply grateful to my Supervisor. I would like to convey my thanks to Mrs Rekha Helode for her gentle behaviour and inspiration.
Let me also express my gratitudes to Dr. Mrs. Geeta Tiwari, Principal, Govt. D.B. Girls P.G.College, Raipur, M.P. and Professor R.G.Bhave, Head of Department of Psychology who motivated and helped me to make easy balance between the research work and teaching. I also thank to Dr Smt. U.K.Agrawal, Assistant Professor, and Dr. Smt. Meeta Jha who cooperated me to avail enough time for this study.

I am heartly grateful to my husband Er. R.K.Choube whose help and suggestions in this Research again proved that he is my best life partner. I am also thankful to my sisters Smt. Savita Pathak and Smt. Padmaja Tiwari for encouragements. I am pleased that my growing sons Saumitra and Soumya helped silently.

Let me also express my thanks to Librarian and all staff of the Pt. Sunderlal Sharma Library, of Pt. Ravishankar Shukla University, Raipur M.P. and Librarian and staff of National Library Calcutta (W.B.) for making available to me the Library facilities.
Special mention for the staff, students and Mr. Junankar who lent me their invaluable time and cooperation for 'Data Collection' from all the professional and nonprofessional colleges at Raipur and Bhilai (M.P.).

Sincere thank to Mr Jagdish Agrawal who provided better shape to this thesis through typing and computer services.
