ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This research study was transformed into reality because of the invaluable support and encouragement I received from a host of accommodating individuals as well as institutions. This thesis owes a debt of gratitude to all of them. In particular, gratitude is first expressed to my research supervisor Dr. G. Ramathirtham, who has supported and encouraged me throughout this work.

I would like to use this opportunity to give special acknowledgement to Prof. T. Subramanian Naidu, Dean, School of Social Science and International Studies, Pondicherry University, whose support was indispensable from the beginning to the end of this research and also doctoral committee member. I would like to thank doctoral committee member Prof. P. Palanisamy for enlightening discussions, which were the source of many ideas which are presented in this thesis.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to Prof. B.B. Mohanty, Head of the Department, Dr. C. Aruna and Dr. P.K. Parida, Lecturers, S. Sumesh Guest Lecturers Department of Sociology, Pondicherry University for their constant suggestions, ideas and valuable advices.

I would also like to give special thanks to Prof. S. Amanula who supported and encouraged during the entire research work.
I like to convey my gratitude to Mr. Kannan, Mr. Prabakaran, Miss. Vijayalakshmi, Biswadayal pradhan, Mr. Balaramalingam, Mr. Stephen Pamei, Hemalatha Bhat, Mr. Sasikumar (International Studies) and other department of researcher for their support to complete this dissertation.

My thanks go to Mr. Managetti, Mr. Manogaran, Mr. Muthusamy and Elumalai Office Staffs for their support during my research.

C.V. Sree Kumaran