I never forget the co-operation of the officers of various ranks of the state and central government and the common people of the study area whom I interacted in connection with necessary data and information for my research. Hundreds of my well wishers encouraged me during the course of my research. I thank them all.

Last but not the least, I thank my wife Debajani for taking care of me, bearing additional load of family affairs and encouraging me constantly during the course of my research. I say ‘sorry’ to my loving son Akashpran and daughter Jonak whom I often made unhappy when they had wanted me to play with them.
