ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I owe a deep sense of gratitude to my Supervisor, Dr. S.K. Mishra, Reader, Department of Economics, for his able guidance, his inspiring support and constant help throughout this research work. It is his person and dedicated spirit that has taught me the true worth of perseverance and sincerity of purpose in conducting an honest enquiry in this study. I take this opportunity therefore to record my sincerest thanks to him.

I am thankful to Dr. K. Bez, Head, Department of Economics, and other teachers of the Department, Mr. A. Dubey, Dr. S. Guhathakurta, Dr. T. Lawma, Mr. B. Mishra, Dr. Shri Prakash, Dr. P.M. Passah, Dr. N. Srivastav and Mr. E.D. Thomas, and also to Dr. Agera and Dr. Malla of Philosophy Department, Dr. P. Nayak of Political Science Department, and Dr. J. P. Singh of History Department, for their ever ready help and useful suggestions.

Thanks are also due to my friends Ms. Ruma Pal, Ms. Silpi Chakravarty, Ms. Sumitra Chowdhury and others in the Department for their encouragement and support.

I would also like to express my affectionate gratitude to my husband, my parents, and my parents-in-law but for whose forbearance and moral support I could not have fulfilled this uphill task.

Lastly, I am very grateful to Mr. Joseph F. Khongbuh, for typing the manuscript meticulously and also to Dr. R.K. Jayaraman and Mr. P. Paswett of CIEFL Regional Centre, Shillong, for helping me in doing the xeroxing of the dissertation.
