The UN World conference of Human Rights in Vienna in 1993 drafted a declaration ultimately inspiring the UN Decade for Human Rights Education 1995-2004. Out of the 100 clauses in the programme of Action (POA) of Vienna declaration four are related directly to Education and Training which are as follows-

Article 78: The world conference of Human Rights considers human rights education, training and public information essential for the promotion and achievement of stable harmonious relations among communities for mutual understanding, tolerance and peace.

Article 79: State should strive to eradicate illiteracy and should direct education towards the full development of the human personality and to the strengthening of respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.

Article 80: Human rights education should include Peace, Democracy, Development and Social Justice, as set forth in the international regional human rights instruments in order to achieve common understanding and awareness with a view to strengthening universal commitments to human rights.
