ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Since my student life I have had great interest to study the performance and prospects of the Agricultural sector in general and that of the district I belong to in particular. One instinctive reason for this perhaps is that I am still a permanent resident of a village from where, in the past, I had to attend Schools and College in Karimganj town walking almost all the distance by village 'Kachha' strips and 'alis' running criss-cross in between the green fields, of paddy in particular, a very familiar landscape of a plain land Indian village, the reminiscence of which still delights me affording a sublime feeling. Why 'reminiscence'? Why is it that over time my village has been getting fader in greeness while villages in Punjab or Haryana have been getting greener, given that our five year plans have put almost uniform spatial emphasis on development of agriculture? I asked myself. And this in specific generated an urge in me to study the reason specifically responsible for this. But I could not undertake it earlier because of financial constraints. It was only after I got a job of Lecturership in Udalguri College, Udalguri, I could undertake a thorough study of the impact of the new agricultural strategy in Karimganj district's agriculture.
During my field work, co-operations from individual farmers and various social organisations were received for which I remain thankful to them, even though I do not name them all, need for precision, being the unavoidable reason.

I like to offer my heartful gratitudes to Mr. S.R. Das, Senior Planning Officer, Karimganj District Planning Cell, Karimganj; Dr. G.R.Das, Chief Scientist, Regional Agricultural Research Station, Assam Agricultural University, Akbarpur (Karimganj); Dr. A.M.Paul, District Agricultural Officer, Karimganj and Mr. P.N.Dhar, Deputy-Director, (In-charge), Department of Economics and Statistics and Shri Ramapada Bhattacharjee, his Colleague as also a large number of officials who at various stages and in varied ways helped me without which, I doubt, if I could complete the work.

My thanks are also due to my teachers, particularly Dr. S.S.Dutta, Profs. P.Bhattacharjee, J.N.Sarma of Karimganj College and Mrs. Snigdha Das, Head of the Department of Economics, Rabindrasadan Girls' College, Karimganj, for their valuable suggestions and encouragement.

I like to keep in record my heartiest gratitude to Shri S.N.Brahma, Principal, Udalguri College, Udalguri, for providing me with necessary suggestions and encouragement, without which it would be impossible for me to complete the study within the specified time.

I would be failing in my duties if I do not extend my thanks to a good number of teachers, scholars, my colleagues and students who helped me at various stages of this study. Particular mention may be made of Mr. P.K. Deb, Director, Planning and Development, Assam Secretariat, Assam; Shri P.K. Basumatary, Mrs. G. Kakati Kalita, Shri K. Hazarika, Shri B.S. Jha, Shri S.N. Nepal, and Shri A.K. Bayan, my colleagues.

I am specially grateful to the members of my family, more to my eldest brother, Shri K.C. Nath, who have spared no pains to create the most congenial and conducive environment at home and who gave me adequate inspiration to bear the burden of this work.

Finally, I express my special indebtedness to Prof. Susanta Krishna Dass, my guide, who took untiring strain in guiding me through out my research work, in spite of his pre-occupations and health constraints.
